Arrival at Rome of French Recruits for the Papal Army.

The Insurgent Forces Marching on the City.

REPORTED ESCAPE OF GARIBALDI FROM CAPRERA.

Public Dinner to the English Cabinet—Speeches of Earl Derby and Lord Stanley.

THE ROMAN QUESTION.

Reinforcements for the Papal Army—The Insurgents Threatening Rome.

FLORENCE, Friday, Oct. 18.

Reinforcements of volunteers, recruited in France and Spain for the defence of the Pope, have arrived in the City of Rome.

When last heard from, Gen. MENOTTI GARIBALDI, with a considerable force under his command, had succeeded in reaching the vicinity of Rome, and was still advancing.

The French Fleet Ordered to Rome.

PARIS, Friday, Oct. 18.

It is reported that the fleet of transports and iron-clads at Toulon has already received orders to sail for Rome, but the actual departure of the expedition has not yet been announced.

Victor Emmanuel's Troops Guarding the Frontier—Arrest of Insurgent Leaders in Rome.

FLORENCE, Friday, Oct. 18—Afternoon.

The troops of King VICTOR EMMANUEL are still guarding the frontier of the States of the Church, and prevent all persons who have the appearance of belonging to the Garibaldian organization from crossing the boundary line.

It is reported that the plan for an insurrection within the walls of Rome has been exposed, and that the leaders have been discovered, arrested, and thrown into prison.

Napoleon Demands the Observance of the September Convention Treaty.

PARIS, Friday, Oct. 18—Midnight.

NAPOLEON has made an imperative demand upon the Italian Government for the strict observance on the part of Italy of the Convention of September.

The expedition at Toulon is equipped and ready to sail to the relief of Rome, and only waits for the reply of Italy, which is hourly expected, to the demand of the Emperor.

It is believed that the Italian Government will yield.

Latest from Italy—Reported Escape of Garibaldi from Caprera—Success of the Insurgents.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 18—Midnight.

The following dispatch has been received from Florence direct, dated to-night:

"It is reported that Gen. GARIBALDI has again escaped from Caprera, and that he left the island on board of an American ship.

The Garibaldians have appeared in the western district, between Rome and the sea. They have taken possession of the railway running between the City of Rome and the seaport of Ostia, and torn up the rails, preventing all communication.

It is still believed here (in Florence) that the Governments of Italy and France have a perfect understanding with each other, and are really acting together in the treatment of the Roman question."

GREAT BRITAIN.

Dinner to the Cabinet—Speeches of Earl Derby and Lord Stanley.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 18.

A dinner was given at Manchester last evening, to the Ministry, at which Earl DERBY, Lord STANLEY, and nearly all the members of the Cabinet were present.

In reply to the usual sentiment in honor of the Administration, the Premier rose and made a speech, in which he defended the action of his Government on the question of reform, and refuted some of the attacks which had been made upon the Representation of the Peoples Bill.

Lord STANLEY, the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in response to a highly complimentary toast, also addressed the company. He spoke of the disturbed condition of Europe; but declared that, notwithstanding the threatening appearance of affairs he still entertained hopes that peace would be preserved. While reviewing, in the course of his remarks, the present relations of Great Britain with foreign Powers, he alluded to the controversy between his Government and that of the United States in regard to the claims for indemnity arising out of the late war in that country. This controversy, he said, still remained open, but England had all along dealt with America in a friendly temper in this discussion, and time was already soothing the irritation which might have arisen on either side of the Atlantic.

Admiral Farragut.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 18.

Admiral FARRAGUT yesterday received and entertained the Lords of the Admiralty on board the flagship Franklin at Portsmouth.

Arrest of a Merchant Charged with Defrauding a Bank.

LIVERPOOL, Friday, Oct. 18—Evening.

Mr. CAMPBELL, of the firm of CAMPBELL & SONS, whose failure was recently announced, was arrested, and upon examination, has been held for trial on the charge of defrauding the National Bank of Liverpool of ten thousand pounds sterling.

FRANCE.

The Chantilly Races.

PARIS, Friday, Oct. 18.

The Autumn races at Chantilly commenced yesterday.

The prize of the Prince of Condé was won by Lady Henrietta.

Alabama was the winner of the Chateau Lafette prize, and the well-known horse Nemea took the Fay premium.

These were the principal events of the day.

DENMARK.

Appointment of Minister to Washington.

COPENHAGEN, Friday, Oct. 18.

ENGLISH AFFAIRS.

The Council of Bishops—The Reform Matters—The Fenians—The Princess of Wales—Cheap Living, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 5, 1867.

I am afraid that the American Bishops who attended the recent Conference at Lambeth will not feel themselves compensated for their trouble. I cannot discover that any one knows precisely what was done at the meetings, and even the Bishops who were present give most conflicting accounts of their discussions. The injudicious step of excluding the reporters has caused the papers to be filled with conjectures and contradictory statements. One Bishop alleges that one thing was done, and another roundly denies it. The Bishop of London and the Bishop of Capetown give a totally opposite narrative of the same circumstance, and the latter has suffered himself to be drawn into a somewhat ill-tempered controversy. It has been said with great justice that "the Conference, without knowing exactly what it was doing, agreed to what no one can understand, and the Bishops cannot agree as to what they decided." This is not a satisfactory termination to a gathering which might have been made the means of doing great good. The primary object of the assembly was to strengthen the Church and establish greater unanimity among its members. So far as can be ascertained, nothing whatever was attempted for the accomplishment of this end. Nevertheless, the American Bishops probably derived some pleasure, and it may even be profit, from the friendly intercourse they must have had with so many fellow-laborers.

The real work, however, of extending the usefulness of the Church cannot be advanced by the issue of a mild and bleating pastoral. That sturdy champion, the Bishop of Oxford, has just pointed out the way to success in characteristically plain and straightforward language. On Thursday night he addressed a large meeting of workingmen and the clergy at Wolverhampton. There he invited the laboring classes to join in the work with heartiness, and spoke, amid immense applause, of the past shortcomings of the clergy. "I think," he said, "the clergy have been stiff and unsympathising very often in times past. They have rather fled from the face of the multitude of their fellow-citizens into coteries, and into the genial society of those who would echo back in sighs the utterances which they made." But a change, he continued, had come over the clergy, and he added:

> "I believe that I am speaking the opinion of the great mass of my clerical brethren around me when I say we don't want fine chapels, with perfumed handkerchiefs, but we want great churches full of earnest thinking men. [Cheers.] Well then I ask you to help us, help us—help us to make these blessings yours and ours. Let the time past suffice for the wretched jealousies of conflicting sects. If any man thinks that by adding, over and above that which the Church of England has instituted, councils of perfection, such as I firmly believe JOHN WESLEY intended to institute—[hear, hear]—don't let us of the Church find fault with them, but let us rather adopt them into the common bosom of a loving Christianity, and bid them God speed. [Much cheering.]"

Now these are very remarkable words to proceed from an English Bishop. Instead of regarding Dissent as a heresy, the present tone of clerical feeling is to welcome Dissenters in friendship and confidence. A vast change is indeed passing over our English life. Liberal ideas are causing great fissures to appear in all those cherished "bulwarks" which the old exclusive spirit erected, in the expectation that they would be everlasting. The welfare of our fellow-man—the general good of all—is now an end to be studied before the preservation of ancient forms or creeds. Great earthquakes, as it were, have happened in our social system of late years, and it is impossible to conjecture what unforeseen disturbance will be wrought next. Of such designs as that advocated by the Bishop of Oxford nothing but good can result, and we may be said to have begun our reforms at the most hazardous point by undermining the venerable political fabric. Nevertheless, as even the croakers are obliged to admit, there is a fair chance that it will last our time.

You will, I hope, approve of the programme of our Liberal Party for the ensuing campaign. Here it was supposed that last year's Reform Bill, which gave so much, would end the agitation for the present at least. In America, where you understand these things better, you of course had no such anticipation, and therefore you will not be surprised to learn that reformers find more to do than ever. In the first place there is the ballot to obtain—that unfailing security for the purity and freedom of elections, as it is customary to say here. I remember hearing more than one Senator and Representative at Washington denounce the ballot as a cowardly device for concealing dishonest practices, and a scheme altogether unworthy of the American people; and in my desk I have at this moment speeches of Senators TRUMBULL and BUCKALEW to that effect. But I need not tell you, who know us and our ways, that if any one wants to study American institutions this is the country where they can show him how to do it! In England the politicians, and men like GOLDWIN SMITH, know far more about America than the Americans themselves. They have got a theory upon the subject, and is not a theory better worth having than a fact? I have learnt far more about the American Government during my residence here than I ever learnt in America itself—our people have such understandings, you see! Well, then, after the ballot has been safely transplanted we are to have a system of compulsory education, and Oxford and Cambridge Universities are to be thrown open to everybody. The laws of entail and primogeniture are to be abolished, and vast properties are to be divided—this, at least, I take to be the meaning of one of the Radicals, Mr. BAXTER, of Montrose, when he said—"He looked upon the continued aggregation of vast properties in the hands of one man as a most serious evil." After all this, equal electoral districts must be adopted. Thus, there is enough work before King BEALES and King ODGERS to last them over Christmas. It would certainly be very unfortunate for these interesting potentates if they were left without employment, because as no large estates have yet been appropriated for their support and maintenance, they might possibly be driven to work like honest men. Now, such a contingency as this, with men like PODGERS, ODGERS, BEALES & Co., who have been accustomed to live like gentlefolks, is, I need not say, much too painful, to be thought of.

The examination of the Fenian prisoners at Manchester has led to a good deal of bluster from their advocates, which no one pays any attention to, and to one or two amusing scenes caused by witnesses. A man, for instance, examined yesterday appears to be a genuine example of the funny Irishman. He said that KELLY got his living by buying and selling "and having an odd glass"—the latter portion of his business being doubtless the most extensive. He was asked if he had ever had delirium tremens? Answer—"Not to the extent I have read about others having it." There is true Irish drollery and mocking fun about this. Whether that sort of evidence will get the prisoners off or not is another matter. In the meantime let me mention one slight circumstance. It is commonly supposed, I know, in the United States that the majority of Irishmen are disaffected toward the Crown. There could not be a greater mistake. The vast majority of Irishmen are loyal, and hate Fenianism mortally. Do not take my word for it; ask any Irishman of the better class, and hear what he will say, or look at a letter from Lord FERMOY—an Irish Peer and landowner—in to-day's papers. Lord FERMOY says:

> "There is but one cure for Fenianism, but one way of settling the question between the American sympathizers and the advocates of British connection, and that is by marshaling the loyal people of all classes and creeds in Ireland, and showing the world what is patent to every man who really knows Ireland and the Irish—that, taking Ireland from North to South, from East to West, an overwhelming mass, preponderating, if not in numbers, certainly in effective strength, for all peace-preserving purposes, and if necessary for war, are to be found on the side of law and order as well as British connection."

Now, this is not English testimony. You have the statement on the authority of a large proprietor in Ireland. Yet I suppose it will continue to be said in Congress and elsewhere, that all Irishmen are fretting and chafing under the English yoke. You will perceive that this, at least, cannot be true.

The poor Princess of Wales! The most favorable report that an eminent surgeon can give of her is that "much time must elapse before she can resume her active habits of life." She is, in fact, an almost incurable invalid, only the doctors naturally do not like to say so. Courtly language, is not couched in that form. Can anything be more melancholy than to see this poor lady, so early in her married life, stricken with a disease which makes her world bounded by the walls of a sick room? And husbands are not always the "devoted nurses" which Prince ALBERT is described by the Queen as having proved in her sicknesses. Some of them prefer to take their pleasure in another way—in hunting, in amusements, it may be in the pipe and the bowl. There are clouds in the sky even of a Princess—old, old moral, and yet how people do still envy princesses and queens!

"J. O.," in other words JACOB OMNIUM, in other words Mr. JOHN HIGGINS, has been writing to one of the papers to say that he has had a good dinner in Glasgow for 3d. or 4d.—I forget the exact sum, but what is the use of being particular to a penny? The soup was good, the meat first-rate. I wish I could get my dinner for 4d.—yes, and the dinner of my wife and my servants also. I have paid many prices in my time for a dinner, but I do not believe that fourpence is what may be called a filling price. There used to be a kind of cement prepared for internal application in schools called "batter pudding," which was an uncommon damper to the appetite—in fact it used, as the boys were wont to say, "swell one out" prodigiously. I think for 4d. you might make a dinner of that. There is still an old-fashioned coffee-house in Fleet-street, London, where once a week they serve up an immense pudding filled with steak and kidneys and oysters and I know not what. Old men go there to eat of the same, and they fix their moist and dewy eyes upon it when it is wheeled into the room, and sharpen their yellow tusks in anticipation of the feast. This plentiful refreshment costs, I believe, 2s.—and here is the famous Mr. HIGGINS, whose picture has been in the Royal Academy, been having a good dinner for 4d! Whereupon some other gentleman proposes that complete dinners for the middle classes shall be cooked and sent round to their houses in heated metal carts. I believe they will carry out the enterprise. Happy day! It will soon cost us nothing to eat and drink, and we shall be able to save all our money. The credit will be mainly due to the adventurous "J. O.," who laid himself up with indigestion, and of whom THACKERAY wrote, in the ballads of "Pleaseman X.":

> "Who was this master good
> Of whomb I makes these rhymes?
> His name is Jacob Homnium, Exquire;
> And if I'd committed crimes,
> Good Lord! I wouldn't 'ave that mann
> Attack me in the Times!"

You will probably notice the report of the Committee appointed to inquire into the affairs of that lively concern, the Atlantic and Great Western Railway. They inform the shareholders that they found the condition of the property "much worse than had been anticipated," and that it would require an expenditure of $2,600,000 to complete the line and put it in order. But, altogether, four millions will be wanted—than which no more cheerful prospect has been presented to the notice of railway shareholders for a considerable time past.

The literary world is so very dull that we have nothing to talk about after dinner but a novel called Cometh Up as a Flower, which people have been a long time finding out, and now discovered all at once. It is written by a lady, and is said to be so extraordinarily good that when once you begin it you cannot lay it down again—not even when it is finished, so I understood one of my informants to say. I cannot tell what I think of the book, because I have not read it—quite the contrary course from that which the ignorant believe is adopted by critics. Mr. TROLLOPE's new magazine (St. Paul's) is out, and if you want to be desperately bored—read it! Several of the magazines have articles on America in them this month, and I have no doubt that they are very instructive and profitable reading, but I do not intend to try them. One learns enough of America, as I said at the outset, from the British philosopher and politician of the period.

THE DOMINION OF CANADA.

The Fenian Arms in Potsdam—Apprehensions of a Raid into Canada.

TORONTO, Ontario, Friday, Oct. 18.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Globe says he has special information confirming the statement regarding the Fenian arms at Potsdam. The arms are those seized by the United States Government in 1866, and lately restored to the Fenian agents. About 4,000 stand of arms have arrived at Potsdam, and a lot of cavalry saddles have also arrived there. It is supposed that the Fenians will take advantage of the elections which are to come off in New-York shortly, and attempt a raid when both the political parties least desire to quarrel with them. The Government authorities of Canada are in full possession of information as to their movements, and the necessary measures and precautions have been taken.

Fenian Plans Known to the Government—Departure of Priests for Florida.

TORONTO, Friday, Oct. 18.

The Evening Telegraph says the Government has received information regarding the plans of the Fenian Brotherhood, of such importance as to warrant the issuance of secret instructions to the commandants of military posts throughout the Province.

HORAG and ULRICH, the counterfeiters, were before the Police Magistrate again this morning. The decision is reserved until Monday.

A number of priests left Montreal to-day on a mission to Florida.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Correspondence Between Gen. Grant and Dr. Leiber.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, Oct. 18.

The Morning Post has the following special dispatch from Washington:

Upon the retirement of Dr. LIEBER from the office of Rebel Records, he wrote to Gen. GRANT, congratulating him upon his success, and saying that it was rarely that history had ever devolved upon any man so many civil and military responsibilities. He said that he felt it was possible that a greater crisis was coming than that which ended at Appomattox Court-house, and he prayed he might be strong enough to accept the responsibility.

Gen. GRANT's reply is said to be the most radical he has written. In it he says he trusts he may have strength to answer any responsibility that may devolve upon him, no matter how solemn it may be. He will not hesitate to accept it if the country demands it.

The Philadelphia Election to be Contested in the Courts.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, Oct. 18.

The Republican candidates for Register of Wills, Clerk of the Orphans' Court and City Commissioner, have commenced a contest in the Court of Common Pleas with the Democrats that received the certificates of election. Frauds are alleged in many wards. In one precinct the Democratic election officers are said to have received 196 votes from persons who were not on the list of voters. Similar frauds are charged in the Second, Fourth, Fifth, Seventeenth and Twenty-fifth Wards—more than enough to change the result.

Death of a Peddler and Robbery of the Body.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, Oct. 18.

JAMES RUSH, aged sixty years, of the Twenty-fifth Ward, engaged in peddling watches, went to Camden yesterday afternoon with five watches, and, it is supposed, considerable money. Last evening his dead body was discovered in a house in Raighsville, a negro settlement below Camden. No marks of violence on his body were discovered, but he had been robbed of all his valuables. He had apparently died from an apoplectic fit. The Coroner is investigating the matter.

Seizure of an Oil Refinery.

PITTSBURGH, Friday, Oct. 18.

The United States authorities have seized the Quaker Oil Refinery. The United States detective having charge of the matter has most successfully worked up the facts against F. TECK and others, claimants. The evidence shows more sales by the firm of free oil, twice over, than the tax paid to the Government. The tax being twenty cents per gallon, it is as profitable as illicit whisky distilling. The amount claimed is very large, and a full report will be made.

NEW-YORK.

Senatorial Nominations.

SING SING, Friday, Oct. 18.

At the Republican Convention of the counties of Westchester, Rockland and Putnam, held at this place to-day, JAMES W. HUSTED was nominated for State Senator.

HUDSON, N. Y., Friday, Oct. 18.

The Democratic Convention of the Eleventh Senatorial District, which met in this city to-day, nominated JACOB B. JEWELL, of Poughkeepsie, as their candidate.

SCHENECTADY, Friday, Oct. 18.

The Democratic Convention for the Fifteenth Senatorial District met here on Tuesday last. The majority, which favored the nomination of Hon. CHAS. STANFORD, carried an adjournment until to-day.

Some disaffected Republicans also held a Convention here to-day and nominated STANFORD as an independent candidate. He was accordingly indorsed by the adjourned Democratic Convention, which reassembled to-day.

MISSOURI.

Trotting at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Friday, Oct. 18.

A race came off yesterday at the trotting park, between Brown George and running mate, and the pacing horses Magoorfier and John Tolle. The latter horse won the race; time, 2:20¼. Brown George was withdrawn after the second heat. To-day a race is to come off between the Kentucky horses Bolls and Gold Dust, and the St. Louis mare Lucky, for $1,000.

A Steamboat Burner Ordered Discharged from Custody.

ST. LOUIS, Friday, Oct. 18.

WILLIAM MURPHY, who has been confined in the Missouri Penitentiary for the last two years under sentence by Military Commission, for boat burning on the Mississippi River during the war, was brought before the United States Circuit Court on Wednesday, and the case argued on an application for his discharge before Judge MILLER. The case was decided to-day, discharging the prisoner on the ground of the unconstitutionality of the tribunal by which MURPHY was tried and sentenced. The Judge decided that the prisoner occupied the same position now as though he had not been tried and sentenced by the military tribunal, and that he could be arraigned and a trial had upon the charge by the civil Courts. On motion of the District-Attorney the prisoner was remanded to confinement until to-morrow, to allow an opportunity to renew the old charges, or prefer new ones, if any existed.

TENNESSEE.

Shocking Murder—The State Legislature—Metropolitan Police.

NASHVILLE, Friday, Oct. 18.

A few days ago a party of men called at the residence of Mr. PORTER, three miles from Johnsonville, and enticed him off under pretence of wishing him as a witness in a trial. After they had gone some distance, WILLIAM PIERCE came out of some bushes and shot him dead. PIERCE was afterward arrested but made his escape. The remainder of the party are held for trial. The difficulty originated in matters occurring during the war.

The railroads concentrating here are trying to agree upon establishing a union depot. Much interest is felt in the result.

The Metropolitan Police went on duty to-night.

The Legislature was not in session to-day, having adjourned to attend a fair at Franklin. The members are delighted with the courtesy shown them there.

Senator ROGERS yesterday offered resolutions in the Senate in favor of paying the bonds with greenbacks. He is one of the oldest and ablest Radicals in that body.

JOHN E. AMOS, of Georgia, had his pocket picked to-day at Chattanooga depot of $1,000.

MARYLAND.

The New City Hall of Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Friday, Oct 18.

The corner-stone of the new City Hall was laid to-day with imposing Masonic rites, the Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the State of Maryland officiating.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Nomination of Delegates to the Convention.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Friday, Oct. 18.

The Republicans have nominated Gen. J. C. ABBOTT and S. S. ASHLEY, white, and A. H. GALLOWAY, colored, for the Convention.

Some of the negroes are dissatisfied because there is not two of their color on the ticket.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

A Negro Riot at Pickens Court House—One Man Killed.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 18.

The Charleston Courier of Thursday, received here to-night, says:

A private letter from Pendleton states that a serious outbreak had just occurred at Pickens Court House, S. C. The particulars as narrated, are these: A meeting of the colored League Association had been disturbed by the interference of a man while in a state of intoxication. The meeting of the League was then adjourned, and its members proceeded to the place where had assembled a debating society, composed of the young gentlemen of the town, and in an infuriated manner attacked them. In the melée Mr. HUNNICUTT, a resident of Pickens, was killed. A military force from Anderson had, the letter mentions, been ordered up to the scene of the disturbance.

FROM THE PLAINS.

The Indian Peace Commission—The Kansas Pacific Railroad.

ST. LOUIS, Friday, Oct. 18.

The Indian Commission was at Fort Larned on the 12th, where they met SATANTA, Head Chief of the Kiowas, and several leading chiefs of other tribes, who will accompany the Commissioners to Medicine Lodge Creek. Gov. CRAWFORD and Senator ROSS, of Kansas, are with the Commission, and strongly oppose any temporizing policy with the Indians.

In case treaties adequate to the security of absolute peace cannot be made, they will use their influence to have large numbers of troops stationed on the plains and sufficient aid be extended to the railroads to complete them. With the railroads finished they say the game will disappear, and with it the Indians.

A letter from Superintendent MURPHY cautions the Commission against taking a large escort with them for fear the military force will frighten the Indians away from Medicine Lodge.

Late advices from New-Mexico say that a large meeting of citizens of the Territory was held at Santa Fe on Sept. 21, to consider measures to secure the extension of the Kansas Pacific Railroad through New-Mexico to the Pacific Ocean. Gov. MITCHELL presided, and speeches were made by Gen. PALMER, Treasurer of the Railroad Company, Major CALHOUN, Chief-Justice SLOUGH, Hon. C. P. CLEAVER, delegate to Congress, and others, all taking strong grounds in favor of the enterprise. A [illegible] adopted, setting forth the numerous reasons why the road should be built, and recommending Congress to extend the same aid to this road as has been, or may be, granted to the Omaha route.

THE PACIFIC COAST.

Indians in Arizona—A Raid on Wickenburgh.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Friday, Oct. 18.

Late advices from Arizona state that the Apaches made a raid upon the town of Wickenburgh, and carried off the entire stock of the place. The Indians were well mounted and equipped. There was no resistance or pursuit, as the cavalry had taken all the horses in the place. The loss of stock closes the operations of the Vulture Company, the only speck of sunshine on the dark horizon of Arizona. The Indians continue to commit outrages in every direction. Gen. GREGG, commanding, is vigorously prosecuting the war, and if it were not for lack of troops and the stringency of orders from headquarters, more would have been accomplished.

YELLOW FEVER.

Deaths at New-Orleans, Memphis and Other Southern Cities.

NEW-ORLEANS, Friday, Oct. 18.

There were 34 interments from yellow fever here to-day. The Howard Association, of this city, has sent fifteen nurses to Memphis to attend to yellow fever patients.

MOBILE, Friday, Oct. 18.

There were two interments from yellow-fever to day.

IMPEACHMENT.

The President's Course Toward the South—The Charges Made Against Him—Speech of Judge Lawrence, of Ohio.

In the appendix to the Congressional Globe for the last session, which has just been issued, is a speech by Hon. WILLIAM LAWRENCE, of Ohio, a member of the Judiciary Committee, printed by permission under the rules of the House. So far as this speech relates to the impeachment of the President, it is understood to express the views held at that time by the four members of the Judiciary Committee who had expressed themselves in favor of impeachment. Judge LAWRENCE, having asserted that the military governments set up in the South during the rebellion could only exist as long as the war lasted, continued as follows:

> The military power cannot, without the sanction of Congress, establish permanent civil governments for times of peace. When flagrant war ceased an "extraordinary occasion" had arisen which made it the duty of the President to convene both Houses of Congress. Refusing to perform this duty, which he knew to be necessary for this and other purposes, he issued seven solemn proclamations, assuming to appoint seven civilian provisional governors, holding no military commissions and without the advice and consent of the Senate. By these proclamations he usurped the power to create an office unknown to the Constitution or the laws; to fill that office with incumbents holding by the tenure of his pleasure, without the advice and consent of the Senate, with salaries fixed by no law but his will, and to be paid out of the public treasury in violation of the law. He assumed the power to clothe these officers with authority; to cause elections to be held for members of conventions; to create State governments by amending State constitutions in a mode different from that prescribed therein, and without the sanction of Congress. He prescribed the qualifications of electors and members of conventions, requiring of each an oath not required by former constitutions and laws of the States. By his edicts he enfranchised every rebel in these States who would take the oath he prescribed, and excluded loyal freedmen, constituting nearly one half of the population of these States, from all right to participate in the elections, or otherwise in political power. He put it in the power of rebels, contrary to his former convictions of duty, to institute governments forever denying freedmen the political and civil rights of citizenship, and this deliberate disfranchisement was consummated by constitutions created by these conventions, and these constitutions were forced upon the States without any vote of the people to ratify them. The President, conceding the justice of demanding terms of restoration, prescribed such as he dictated, ignoring the rights of of Congress, and in obedience to his will governments were organized, Governors, Legislatures, and all State officers were chosen, and Senators and Representatives were elected to Congress, not in conformity with the law, and these officers were generally rebels, who could not take the test oath. The President assumed the right to determine when the new State governments should go into operation, requiring the Provisional Governors to remain in the exercise of their functions until relieved by his express direction.
> While these usurpations were going on, the President quieted the fears of the people by assuring them that his policy was only an experiment, and that the approval of Congress was necessary to restore the civil authorities. Yet even before this Presidential usurpation was perfected, in a solemn official document—the message to Congress of June 22, 1866—he said: "Of thirty-six States which constitute the Union eleven are excluded from representation in either House of Congress, although, with the single exception of Texas, they have been entirely restored to all their functions as States in conformity with the organic law of the land." And in the veto message now before us, the President says of these illegal Governments, that "Executive recognition, as is well known, has been frequent and unwavering." A President whose conduct is marked by acts which may define him a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people, and deserves impeachment. In thus devising the scheme of disfranchisement, the President seems to have been guided by a purpose to speedily secure power to the rebel States, rather than by a sense of duty, if he did not act contrary to his own convictions expressed at an earlier date, and which he abandoned when he conceived the design, as he did, of putting the Government in the hands of rebels and those who, during the war, had sympathized with them. This scheme of reconstruction, denying the power of Congress, became and is known as the President's Policy, while that which asserts the power of the law-making department of the Government, is known as the Policy of Congress.
> This usurpation by the President is clearly impeachable, and the mode by which he sought to accomplish it and force it upon the country, not only aggravates the crime, but, in view of his motives, constitutes additional ground of impeachment. To achieve his purposes he was guilty of many unnecessary and unauthorized usurpations and acts of oppression. He held the liberty of the Press subject to his sovereign will and control, suppressing the publication of such newspapers as he disapproved, and permitting them to resume publication contrary to the advice of Gen. GRANT, by exacting a pledge to support the policy of his administration, when he was advised that his order was improper and mischievous in its tendency. He held large portions of the rebel population in abject servility, not as a measure of safety to the Government, but that he might bribe support of his policy by the exercise of the pardoning power. He has restored to rebels property of the value of many millions of dollars, in violation of the law and in disregard of the rights of loyal citizens. He has, without authority and without consideration, and in violation of the law, transferred to corporations controlled by rebels, railroads constructed by the Government in part, at a cost of many millions of dollars, as he has also other property used for insurrectionary purposes. He has, without authority and in violation of law, sold railroad rolling stock and other property of the United States of the value of many millions of dollars, on long credit, with insufficient security, for less than its value, to corporations controlled by rebels, and when payments fell due, he has corruptly and without authority suspended indefinitely the performance of their obligations. He has prostituted the power of appointment to and removal from office to the maintenance of his policy, regardless of and to the great prejudice of the public interests; corrupting by it, as far as possible, all who were base enough to abandon principles, and exerting it in a spirit of proscription, and to an extent unknown in any former Administration. He aimed a blow at the Constitution and the liberties of the country, by refusing to submit appointments to office to the Senate for their advice and consent, and by retaining men in office, regardless of that body. He made an order removing all penalties from a large number of persons marked as deserters on the rolls of the War Department, for the purpose of securing the election of a favorite candidate for Congress in West Virginia, regardless of duty and without evidence. He assumed a power to dispense with the acts of Congress, and appointed rebels to office in violation of law. He refused to execute laws for the punishment of traitors, or for the confiscation of their property, or that used for insurrectionary purposes. By his proclamation of April 2, 1866, and by other acts, he assumed to himself the right to determine when war had ceased, without consulting the law-making power, by whose authority alone war can be made and peace declared in cases of rebellion. The assumption of a power to declare peace, to say when or how long the laws of war shall continue, is simply a power to terminate war at the pleasure of the President, and might be made fatal to the national existence. While these usurpations were being practised, the President maintained the operation of martial law in rebel States, suspending from the right to hold office under the so-called State authority, whomsoever he chose, while maintaining the right to try civil offenders by military commissions, and to punish at his pleasure. His conduct encouraged rebels to murder in cold blood unoffending citizens in the exercise of their peaceful rights. Professing to regard Louisiana as a regularly organized State, he in violation of the Constitution authorized the Attorney-General of that State, a notorious rebel, to call on the national military authorities to aid in the work of suppressing a lawful and loyal assemblage of people. And though there was "an absolute massacre, a murder without necessity," by a rebel mob in New-Orleans, no one of the guilty perpetrators has ever been brought to justice or punishment. While thus giving encouragement to rebels to suppress a loyal and lawful assemblage, he refused military aid when demanded by the Governor of Tennessee to preserve peace and execute the laws. Assuming the right to require illegal conventions to be held in seven States at his pleasure, he denied the right of a legal convention to be held in Louisiana. While many thousands of loyal citizens, including freedmen, were murdered without cause by rebels during his work of reconstruction, the President failed to cause the guilty perpetrators to be arrested, tried or punished, and forcibly dissolved a military commission in Virginia, sitting for the trial of an acknowledged murderer, whom the civil autorities failed to punish, and he is to-day at large and unmolested. He has brought reproach upon himself and degraded the dignity of his office by indecent harangues to the people, and has denounced Congress as "a body called, or which assumes to be, a Congress of the United States, while in fact it is a Congress of only a part of the States."
> The President's policy finds no sanction in that of his predecessor. Mr. LINCOLN never did, "during his administration, submit to his Cabinet any plan for the reorganization of the rebel States," neither he nor his Cabinet ever had any plan matured; the time had not arrived when it was practicable. He did, indeed, appoint Military Governors, who ranked as Brigadier-Generals in the United States service, and were proper military officers confirmed by the Senate as such. There was a difference both of time and circumstance between what was done by the two Presidents. Military Governors were appointed during the war and Provisional Governors after. The former were clothed with military power and charged with military duties; the latter were civil officers not appointed "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate," and were charged with civil duties. The restored Governments of Virginia, of Tennessee and of Arkansas was the voluntary work of the people. The work of reorganization in Louisiana, urged by a Major-General of the army, was a legitimate means of suppressing the rebellion, but could not authorize permanent civil government unless ratified by Congress. President LINCOLN's proclamation of Dec. 8, 1863, and July 8, 1864, were made during flagrant war, as war measures, to induce the people to return to loyalty, and not assuming to create valid, permanent civil Governments. He never did, like President JOHNSON, declare any State "restored in conformity with the Constitution." President LINCOLN merely invited the voluntary action of the people, but he declared that whether the members sent to Congress from any State shall be admitted to seats constitutionally rests exclusively with the respective Houses of Congress, and not to any extent with the Executive. In the proclamation of July 8, 1864, he said he was "unprepared" to be fully committed to any single plan of restoration, and Congress has found it necessary to change the plan provided in the Reconstruction Laws, as circumstances pointed the necessity. No precedent can sanctify the flagrant usurpations of ANDREW JOHNSON. If the House of Representatives has not the power, or shrinks from the duty of preferring articles of impeachment for repeated crimes and misdemeanors of which the President has been guilty, then is the Constitution a failure, or the representatives of the people will voluntarily imperil civil liberty forever, by a precedent which may give immunity to unlimited Executive usurpations hereafter.

A Murderer Sentenced to be Hanged in St. Louis.

From the St. Louis Democrat, Oct. 16.

Yesterday morning, a little before 10 o'clock, PETER CHRISMAN, the murderer of EDWARD ROSS and his son in Columbia Bottom, last May, was arraigned at the bar of the Criminal Court for sentence, which was that he be hanged on Friday, the 6th day of December next. In his remarks to the condemned, Judge PRIMM reminded him that throughout the trial he had seemed indifferent to his fate, and entreated him to consider that his days were numbered. The circumstances of the murder the Judge stated as follows:

> "The prisoner is 20 years of age, of athletic frame, and has all the appearance of having constantly enjoyed robust health. There is nothing about him to denote insanity in any form. In the month of May of the present year he killed EDWARD ROSS and his infant boy while they were asleep, the child reposing on his father's arm. The instrument of death was an ax, with which he brained them both. After the homicide, the prisoner ransacked Ross' premises, took his trunk, clothing, wagon and horses and made his escape. Some two days after he was arrested as the perpetrator of the deed, and being charged with its commission, clearly and explicitly avowed it. When he was arraigned before the Court upon a charge of murder, preferred against him by the Grand Jury and asked to say whether he was guilty or not guilty of the charge, he as clearly and explicitly said that he was guilty. This Court refused to receive the plea, on the ground that possibly he was not aware of its consequences, and directed a plea of not guilty to be entered. The horrid nature of the homicide and the apparent want of motive for its commission, at once indicated insanity as the only defence. This plea was accordingly set up, and although backed up by an industry and urged with an ability seldom surpassed; and although the law governing the case was clearly and favorably presented to the jury by the Court in its instructions, yet the prisoner, by the verdict, was declared to have been fully conscious of his designs and ends at the committing of the act, and to be guilty of murder in the first degree, the penalty of which crime is death."

During the delivery of the sentence the boy-murderer manifested not a particle of feeling, but was as stolid as a block of wood. His eyes were fixed upon the Judge, but there was no expression in them, and his countenance never changed in the slightest degree. When taken back to the jail he answered an inquiry of the jailor by calmly saying he supposed he would have to die at some time. His indifference could not have been assumed, for he appeared totally unconscious of his fearful position.

The Negro Difficulty at the Taylor Farm in Virginia.

From the Norfolk (Va.) Journal, Oct. 17.

The facts in connection with the Taylor farm trouble are these, derived from an official source: On the 1st inst. an officer arrived in Norfolk from Washington, for the purpose of inducing the colored people occupying the farm to vacate the lands, and with this view visited Willoughby Point. He found only about one hundred persons present, out of about six hundred who are in possession. They were addressed by him, and told that they had no right to be there, as the farm was the property of Mr. TAYLOR, and that the National Government had restored it to him. They were satisfied that if such was the case they had no claim, and expressed a willingness to leave, provided other lands could be bought or labor could be had. The officer replied that he would send them parties from whom they could purchase lands or who would employ them. This seemed satisfactory, and he returned to Norfolk. On the following Sunday parties went to the farm to inform the residents where lands and labor could be had, and on what terms. A much larger number of freedmen were present on this occasion than at the first, and a consultation was held. It was soon ascertained that their opinions had undergone a change, as they declined to stand by the terms originally proposed and assented to. They assigned, as a reason for their course, want of faith in the statement that the Government had restored the land, and that they were only carrying out the directions of the officers they served under, who told them when discharged to settle down on any lands belonging to the Government and hold them as their own. There was no difficulty at all, it being simply a meeting in which the subject was discussed in all its points. If any difficulty exists there at this time it is unknown at the Freedmen's Bureau.

Unprovoked Assault in Chicago—A Little Child Wantonly Shot.

From the Chicago Tribune, Oct. 17.

A young man named ALFRED OZIER, son of Capt. OZIER, an old and well-known citizen, yesterday afternoon entered the house of Mr. HALEY, No. 186 North Green-street, and inquired about the locality of a certain residence on that thoroughfare. A little son of Mr. HALEY, a lad about six years of age, volunteered to direct him to the locality, and the two walked away together. They had gone but a short distance when a pet dog belonging to the lad overtook them. This circumstance enraged OZIER, and he threatened to shoot the animal. The boy plead with him not to do so, when OZIER turned upon him and remarked, "If I don't shoot the dog, I'll shoot you." Suiting action to the word, he drew his revolver, took deliberate aim at the boy, and fired. The ball took effect in the boy's left arm, and so frightened the lad, that he fell, as if dead, on the ground. The affair had been observed by a number of persons, who instantly made a dash at the supposed murderer, and for a time held him prisoner; but he subsequently tore himself from their grasp, fled the scene, and up to an early hour this morning had not been recaptured. The lad, under the treatment of a competent surgeon, is doing comparatively well.

Young OZIER for some years past has led a very dissolute life. During the last two months he has sojourned in the East, and returned only yesterday morning. During the forenoon, while meddling with his revolver, the weapon suddenly discharged, and inflicted a severe wound in his hand. It is but charitable to believe that he was laboring under an attack of delirium tremens at the time of his unprovoked assault upon a harmless child. The police are making every endeavor to effect his capture.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

—The name of ALICE CARY is widely known, both in this country and in England, as that of a writer of very graceful and pleasing verse, the chief characteristic of which is pathetic fancy. Without much imagination, or great depth of feeling, she possesses a genuine poetic faculty, and has the power of clothing her conceptions in beautiful forms. Her latest volume, published to-day by TICKNOR & FIELDS under the title of A Lover's Diary, is one that will find many readers and touch many hearts. It is a collection of love poems, sweet, graceful and tender, and suggests rather than tells the story of a young man's love for a maiden his inferior in rank and wealth, but whom nature has endowed with rare beauty of form and soul. Looking back, after he has won her for his wife, he recalls to mind their first meeting, when she was only seven years old, a little rustic beauty, who might become a fine lady or grow up to be a farmer's wife—a "household drudge," like most of the sweet Maud Mullers of real life. Here is the picture—it is called "Mona, Seven Years Old:"

Breaking out of her homespun gown,
 Just like a wild-flower out of its bur;
Legs bare to the knees, and the shoulders down
 To the waist, I marveled and mused at her.

Her hands had been kissed and kissed by the sun
 Brown as berries; she held her hair
Away from her dove-like eyes with one,
 And stared at me, straight as eyes could stare.

One moment—then, being well content,
 She dropt the tresses, that over the white,
Clear brow and sweet eyes came and went
 Like shadows blowing across the light.

"A picture, such as the painter loves,"
 I said, and passed, but she would not stay;
Those sweet eyes staring, round as a dove's,
 Held me and haunted me all the day.

One foot on the other, bare and brown—
 The shining fall of her dead-leaf hair—
Legs and shoulders out of her gown—
 She held me and haunted me, everywhere.

The section of the book from which this poem is taken is called "Dream-Land." Then we have "Mona, Eight Years Old," "Mona, at School," and Mona at various other ages and in various interesting situations. Here is a pretty fancy from "Mona, Sleeping:"

Ah, never had maiden
 Such maidenly grace!
Her dream like a vail
 Lieth over her face,
And the cheek next the pillow
 Is printed with lace.

* * * *

I hate the bold moonlight
 That treads (as it dares)
The leaves at her window
 As if they were stairs,
And plays with her dear
 Little hand, unawares.

Part II. contains "Serenades," named for the months from April to January. Some of these songs are exquisite in feeling and rhythm, though, if read continuously, they weary one by a certain sameness and want of decided contrasts. One of the best is "December:"

One, by the stroke of the clock!
 The time drags heavy and slow;
And I wake from dreams as full of thee
 As the clouds are full of snow,
From dreams as white with thee, my dove,
 As the clouds are white with snow.

I call thee all sweet names,
 Song-lark, lily, and rose,
And I only hear the night-fowl's cry,
 And the wind as it beats and blows,
And the moan of the river under the hill
 Freezing as it flows.

One, by the stroke of the clock!
 The night will never go by!
My love, thou hast grown as cold
 As the gray cloud up in the sky!
Yet come, and snow thyself in my arms,
 And chill me, till I die.

We have alluded to the sameness and want of interest in these poems; these are not the only blemishes by which the reader's pleasure in them will be marred. There are many passages that seem like echoes of the voices of other poets—passages, and lines, and fancies that read as if TENNYSON's Maud were lingering in the author's mind when she wrote, and, unconsciously to herself, giving tone and color to her thoughts. Take the following, for example, from the August "Serenade:"

Come and comfort the flowers, my sweet,
 Come and comfort the flowers!
They're hanging their heads in the garden-beds,
 They're dying in all the bowers;
Like a beam from the sun, my pretty one,
 Come and comfort the flowers!

The violet, she is faint with heat—
 The lily is all forlorn;
My love, arise, with thy dewy eyes,
 Arise, and be their morn!
With thy hand so white and thy cheek so bright,
 Come thou, and be their morn!

And the following from the rhapsody entitled "Vagaries:"

I would that my love were a lily fair,
 And I would that I were a sunbeam bold,
Still to be dressing her flowery hair
 All day long with my airy gold.

Or would she were the dew that lies
 In the rose, and I the rose-tree were,
To fold my red leaves over her eyes,
 And make my sweetness a part of her.

Would I were a breeze that is where it will,
 And she a leaf in some lonely place;
How I would cling to her, sing to her, till
 She gathered me up in her green embrace.

These lines are certainly very sweet, and the fancy just such a pretty silliness as a young and romantic lover would delight in; but when such fancies are repeated in nearly every page of a book of two hundred and forty pages, they become as wearisome as lovers themselves are to everybody but themselves. Yet it would be unjust to convey the impression that there is nothing deeper and better in the book than the graceful verses we have quoted. The lover at length proposes, and Mona rejects his offered hand—not because she does not love him, but because she is a little bit of a coquette, and is willing that her wealthy suitor should give further proofs of the sincerity of his love. In his despair he cries:

Thou, that drawest aside the curtain
 Letting in the moon's broad beams,
Give me back the sweet, th' uncertain—
 Give, O give me back my dreams!

* * * * *

Take the passionless caresses
 All to waveless calm allied;
Give me back my heart's sweet guesses,
 And my hopes unsatisfied!

Thou that mak'st the real too real,
 O, I pray thee get thee hence!
Give me back my old ideal,
 Give me back my ignorance.

We have quoted so much already from this beautiful volume that we must stop, and send our readers to its own exquisitely printed and illustrated pages for the rest. It is not a book to be read all at once, or in every mood. It will sometimes offend as well as please, according as the reader is when he takes it up. The illustrations are by HENNESSY, MCENTEE, SHATTUCK and CARY, and have been engraved with exquisite delicacy. The poems could not well have had a more beautiful setting than TICKNOR & FIELDS have given them.

Liberality Toward American Colleges—The Record of a Year.

From Yale Courant, Oct. 16.

The past collegiate year has been one in which the American people have shown great liberality in endowing our colleges. The princely gifts of GEO. PEABODY and EZRA CORNELL, the centenary contributions of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the land fund for agricultural colleges, have swelled the amount of wealth bestowed on them to greater proportions than in any year in the history of our country. The noble examples of a few have been emulated by many. It is necessary, however, that this work should go on. Outside of New-England and New-York, we know of but two colleges that are sufficiently endowed to enable them to do full justice to the professors and students connected with them. These two are Kentucky and Michigan Universities. The latter is supported by funds from the State; the former, through the munificence and work of one man, has $700,000 in real estate, endowments, &c.

We do not include in the amounts given below the land grants for agricultural colleges. The gifts of EZRA CORNELL, though made in 1865, will properly be included in the past collegiate year, for they were not applied till then. We give a list of thirty-one colleges with endowments amounting in the aggregate to over $3,000,000, or averaging nearly $010,000 each. The list is far from being complete, but in most instances it is officially correct. The sums named include endowments, bequests for various purposes, and subscriptions for memorial chapels. Several colleges we have addressed for information, have not responded. Instead of waiting longer we give the list as far as we have been able to complete it:

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE EXPOSITION.

The Success and Probable Results of the Fair—Objects of Interest for the Scientific and the Curious.

The American Institute Exposition closes with the coming week. It has been, and continues to be, a great success in every sense of the word. The fact that 150,000 persons have visited it since the opening day, says enough in confirmation of the popular approval, and at the same time speaks well for the result in a financial point of view. The exhibitors, too, are not slow in the expression of their satisfaction; many of them, coming from a distance with their machines or wares, having succeeded in forming valuable connections in this city at the same time being eminently successful in advertising their devices or their goods. Patent-rights have found in many instances ready purchasers, and the cases are numerous where the needy inventor from the remote town or village has found in New-York what he would otherwise and elsewhere have looked for in vain—the man of capital, with faith sufficient to loan a willing hand and a bounteous pocket toward carrying his project to a successful issue.

At no time in its past history has the Institute stood better, or perhaps so well before the public as it now does. With over a quarter of a million of dollars invested in real estate, and hence not called upon to make those vigorous efforts for life which as often develops the latent power of institutions as of individuals, for many years the American Institute has been considered by the public to be one of those respectable fossil establishments, where a few venerable gentlemen held sinecure seats, had a nice easy time of it generally; where the most active members were heard from once a year or so by a dozen amiable friends through the medium of an essay, or at an occasional semi-abortive exposition. Had the members of the American Institute lost ambition as the Institute itself grew wealthy, doubtless we should have found it fossilized by this time, but luckily they did not. The desire too see their institution hold the position it ought in popular favor has lately gained strength among the members, and has braced the more active and capable among them to vigorous exertion. The first fruits of this are before us in the now culminating results of the Exposition of 1867. The building is the same as that in which was held the Fair of 1865, yet the attendance has been treble this year what it then was. Machinery and wares of every kind came crowding in upon the managers, who had the tact to go the right way about procuring them, until they were reluctantly obliged to close their doors against hundreds of articles which could not have failed to have added interest to the exhibition. Further, the desire to erect a building for the expositions of the Institute, and for its library and museum, has been a powerful incentive, as the gratification of that depended much upon the guarantee given this year of future support for well-directed effort. There can be now no doubt about either the quantity or quality of this support. Forgetting shortcomings of past years, heedless of cries of fossilism, the public have responded to an energetic effort to amuse and instruct them most liberally and it now remains only with the Institute to preserve the position they have attained at a stride, by going into the work of building with a will and providing for the exhibitors and the public before August of next year a structure, even if only a temporary one, of adequate dimensions to meet the requirements of the former and afford space enough in the aisles and promenades for visitors to see and to be seen, without risking even their own symmetry or the integrity of the show cases. This they promised to do if the fair of 1867 were successful. It is signally so.

In preceding articles devoted to the notice of works of art and meritorious devices exhibited we have been able only to allude to some of the most attractive of these. There are doubtless in the Fair many hundred articles well deserving a description which would interest those too distant to see them for themselves, and which illustrate in admirable manner the progress of the country, not only in the useful arts but in matters of taste and refinement. A glance at the catalogue of the Fair, however, will satisfy those out of the reach of the Fair itself, how impossible it is in the limited space attainable for such a purpose in a daily newspaper to do more than touch lightly the prominent points of interest in our review.

PETROLEUM.

Not by any means the least interesting exhibit in the Fair is that of F. S. PEASE, of Buffalo. Arranged with excellent taste on a stand to the right of the central aisle of the great hall are samples of petroleum and its products, sixty-three in number. The oil in every stage of refinement; samples of the crude from different wells, many of these having peculiar properties; a medicinal oil, requiring two years in its manufacture; colorless oil, which will stand a fire test of 142, and an array of those wonderful analine dyes, the result of chemical action and one of the remarkable discoveries of our time.

A STEAM CARRIAGE FOR THE ROAD.

Down near the stairway which leads to the pneumatic tube may be seen a modest-looking rockaway, which, upon close inspection, will be found a more complicate arrangement of wheel and axle than is common to that familiar vehicle. This is a steam carriage for the road. Underneath the body of the vehicle are two small oscillating engines attached to the main axle, of 8-horse power each. Behind is the boiler whose dimensions are so small that the thing, at a short distance, might be easily mistaken for an adventurous urchin hanging on for a cheap ride. The water tank which supplies the boiler is underneath the seat of the driver. With forty pounds of steam, thirty miles per hour can be made on an ordinarily level road. The boiler is constructed to resist a pressure of 150 pounds. It is necessary to fire up only once in every ten miles, and this is done without leaving the carriage. The driver occupies the accustomed seat in front, points his direction and regulates his speed by handles to the right and left—easily used. It is stated that the machine has done some most successful running already, with Mr. WRIGHT, the exhibitor, at the ribbons or the rudder. How far distant the day may be, when to the intense enjoyment of Mr. BERGH, or his disciples, and to the comfort of the animals themselves, horses will cease to be the miserable slaves they are, may be perhaps determined by those who investigate the merits of the runaway rockaway, and hear its claims as a willing worker for small pay and light board, set out by the inventor, Mr. ROPER.

FIRE AND BURGLAR ALARMS.

The number of devices exhibited to prevent the entrance of burglars and the spread of conflagration speaks well for the philanthropy of inventors. If their genius runs in this direction, it is well to give them credit for philanthropy, even when they ask pay for it. Mr. WATERMAN exhibits a portable burglar-alarm, which by a simple method can be attached to door or window, and thence communicate with a bedroom. Mr. FONTAINE exhibits a fire-alarm, which is adjusted near the southern door, leading from the Hall of Arts into the great central building. DION also exhibits his well-known apparatus, the principle of which is the expansion of a wire by the heat and the consequent liberation of a lever, which lever then communicates the alarm. LEVI exhibits his fire-extinguisher—the portable can containing carbonic acid gas and water, the old enemies of fire, strong in their union.

SEAT AND COUCH FOR SLEEPING-CARS AND STEAMBOATS.

J. W. LAMB, the well-known inventor of the Lamb Knitting Machine, and the scarcely less known inventor of a dozen useful and valuable devices, exhibits something novel as a seat and couch for cars and steamboats which attracts a great deal of well-deserved attention. The model exhibited is at first glance like two seats of a railway carriage placed vis-a-vis. By the simple act of turning a crank the seats approach each other until they meet, and the backs slide down into their place, at the same time from the roof a berth descends of the same capacity as that beneath formed by the union of the seats. The whole is now a compartment in car or steamboat of two comfortable berths, and this is done in ten seconds. All the seats in a sleeping-car so constructed, it is claimed can be transformed into beds by a single person in two minutes, or vice versa. The simplicity of the device is most remarkable, and the wonder is, as in all such inventions, that it was not thought of long ago.

NEW LEVER POWER.

A new lever power is exhibited by an humble New-York maker and mender of locks of this City, Mr. WADHAMS. It is situated midways beneath the pneumatic tube and is the object of especial attention, and is the occasion of a good deal of noise at the Fair, whatever it may make in the world. It is a peculiar arrangement of lever and pinion, and the obvious result of its action is, that the power produced by each stroke of the lever is added to that already gained [illegible] and thence to a pulley to be utilized. It seems to solve the problem of accumulating lever power without loss of time or any portion of the force communicated by the land—the upward as the downward action of the lever adding to the speed of the wheel already attained. Two or three ascents and descents of the lever set the fly-wheel going at a rate that it will run for five minutes, and can be stopped only with vigorous pressure against the brake.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. C. F. A. HERMBSTEDT, of Broadway, exhibits a study lamp, invented by a German named C. A. KLEMONIS. It is constructed to burn petroleum, and has its reservoir detached from the lamp proper. The lamp can be adjusted at a height to suit the labors or the sight of the student, and asks for his attention for a few minutes once a week or so. It burns with a clear, unflickering flame, and will, doubtless, prove a great boon to consumers of the midnight oil. It is also a hansome ornament of the study table.

An ingenious little instrument is exhibited for stretching carpets and at the same time driving in the tacks. It is a tube, having a spring adjustment, which sends home the tack. The tube stands up like a broom-handle, having at its lower end the claw, which seizes the carpet and holds it during the stretching; the tack is dropped into the tubular handle, point downward, and by a simple operation is sent home.

A very attractive show-case is that of CLEMENT, HAWKES & MAYNARD, containing the only exhibition in the Fair of American table cutlery, and the equal in beauty to the manufacture of these goods in any country. The pearl-handled and silver-bladed knives and forks, which form part of the collection, are of exquisite finish and design.

An ingenious fire escape may be seen near the tack driver. It is made to run up the side of a building, or to be adjusted there, and when closed looks like a piece of piping or an iron bar, say two inches in diameter, like small spouting. The touch of a spring causes the tube to divide longitudinally and to release instantaneously the ladder rounds contained inside. It thus expands itself into a fire-proof fire escape. It is said to be as cheap as it is simple. It is the construction of the American Fire Escape and Fireman's Ladder Company.

The New-York Bread Machine Company exhibit a bread-mixing machine, in which it would seem everything is done but the cooking. The flour is thrown, with due proportions of water and yeast, into a can-shaped receiver. Here it is kneaded rapidly between rollers turned by hand, and in a few seconds is sufficiently aerated for the oven.

The manufacturers of the lead-encased block-tin pipe, the Colwells, Shaw and Willard Manufacturing Company, exhibit specimens of the work of their machinery for drawing out piping. The huge block of lead, with its piece of tin in the centre, is shown, and the wonderful results of its being drawn out in coils of two and three hundred feet in length.

C. & C. WILLIAMS & Co. have a tempting stand of preserved fruits and exhibit the various devices now in use for bottling.

W. W. WALL, of Sixth avenue, confectioner, vex the eyes of hungry bachelors and needy widowers with a bride's cake as big as a small church, representing that cloud-built structure—the Temple of Fame, and with so many sweet and soul melting surroundings that as a temptation to the married to commit bigamy, it is almost irresistible. Who would'nt marry again to have that sweet mountain bisected over his head, and the crumbs drop into his mouth?

EPISCOPAL BOARD OF MISSIONS.

The Freedmen's Commission—Bishop Whipple on Indian Wars—Bishop Neely on the State of Religion in Maine.

The Board of Missions of the Episcopal Church resumed its business in the Church of the Ascension yesterday, Right Rev. Bishop ODENHEIMER, of New-Jersey, presiding.

Bishop CLARKSON, of Nebraska, made an interesting report of the present condition of his diocese, setting forth that in every town having a population of a thousand there was a parochial organization, and the preaching of the Word was warmly welcomed everywhere.

The Committee on the report of the Freedmen's Commission offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the work of this Commission, undertaken at the last General Convention, under the solemnity created by the return of peace and the happy reunion of the Church, should not be neglected, as in the past year by almost three-fourths of the parishes; and therefore the Board earnestly calls upon every Rector to bring the claims of this Commission before his people at an early day; and every parish to help by its contributions in fulfilling the obligations of the Church.

Resolved, That the Board heartily approves the action of the Commission in regard to the High School at Charleston and the Normal School at Raleigh, and commends these enterprises especially to the sympathies of the Church.

Resolved, That in view of the valuable aid of the Pennsylvania Branch of the Commission, the Board recommends the establishment of auxiliary societies in other places, to work either for the general fund, or especially for the important schools named.

In the course of the discussion of the resolutions Rev. Dr. HAIGHT, Chairman of the Commission, said that no donation from the Freedmen's Bureau, or from any source, had in any way been allowed to compromise or hamper the work of the Board under the auspices of the Commission. They aimed at imparting as good instruction to the freed people as was given in the common schools of Boston or New-York, because they regarded the training of the intellect as of great importance; but this was not done to the exclusion of instruction in religious matters, according to the doctrines and usages of the Church. Beyond this every teacher employed by the Commission was a communicant of the Episcopal Church.

Bishop ODENHEIMER said that he was deeply interested in the success of the work among the freedmen, and that he believed everything calculated to obstruct it had been carefully kept out of the way. The plan regarding that work was to make it one that would represent the whole Church, educating the freedmen as men and brethren, with a view to making them blessings to themselves and to the country.

Rev. Dr. HAIGHT said he wished there were more branch associations, such as the one in Philadelphia. There should be one in every city in the land, in which both ladies and gentlemen would find abundant material to occupy their attention, while they would render by their labors eminent service to the Board and to the Church.

The resolutions were adopted.

The subject of agencies in connection with the work of the Domestic Mission brought out a warm discussion, some of the members being favorable to special agents being sent into the dioceses to inform the people of the extent and wants of the field.

Bishop POTTER objected to an army of agents running to and fro in his Diocese, as he was confident the Rectors of parishes were abundantly able to communicate to their people all that was necessary. He did not believe in the teasing of the Church and the interference with Diocesan plans for missionary work, which such agencies as were proposed would undoubtedly cause. A motion to postpone the subject till the next meeting was adopted.

On the subject of engaging the coöperation of children in the missionary work, Rev. Mr. MORRIS observed that the training of the children to the love of missionary sentiment had been neglected so long that the result was the difficulty experienced now in impressing the adult members of the Church with the importance of supporting missions.

Bishop WHIPPLE, of Minnesota, spoke of the work among the Indians. He charged that the wars with Indians, about which so much was heard, were caused by want of good faith on the part of the United States Government. Every Indian killed cost the Government half a million of dollars. Notwithstanding the vast amount of money expended by the Government for the education of Indians, he had never yet met with one who had been taught to read at the expense of the Government. The basis of all the trouble with the Indians was in injustice and wrong inflicted by the Government, and if those wrongs were not soon righted the Indians would be massed in solid bodies, and the massacres of former times would be but feeble attempts compared with what would occur, and it was not the guilty who suffered in these terrible onslaughts on the frontier; it was the innocent.

The Assistant Bishop of Wisconsin charged that the doctrine that the extermination of the Indians was necessary because of their incapacity for civilization and Christianization, was false.

Bishop CLARKSON added his testimony to the claims on behalf of the Indians that they were, as a general thing, manly and faithful.

Mr. WM. WELSH, of Philadelphia, said he had interested himself in the cause of the Indians, and had visited Washington in the matter, and seen the letters and treaties which had been made and violated by the officials who were supposed to carry out the orders of the Government. Politicians had in every instance been the cause of the troubles of which so much had been heard.

A resolution for the appointment of a committee to memorialize the Government on behalf of the Indians was adopted.

Bishop NEELY, of Maine, said that he was as much a missionary bishop as any of the brethren who were so called. In Maine there were but nineteen parochial organizations, and of these only four could be said to be more than self-supporting. In Maine Congregationalism was dying out, and Unitarianism (which meant indifferentism) had no deep root in the hearts of the people. Wherever he had traveled the people had received him gladly, and welcomed the Church, its doctrines and its mode of worship, and all that was necessary to enable him to go in and reap the harvest was more aid. He very much desired some recognition from the Domestic Mission Committee.

The elegant speech of the Bishop called forth a resolution appropriating the sum of $1,500 to strengthen his hands in the prosecution of his work in Maine, which was adopted.

Bishop ODENHEIMER said he had come to the conclusion that Maine was, after all, a part of the Western field, and that it should be so regarded by the Board.

The annual report of Bishop PAYNE, of Cape Palmas, Africa, having just been received, it was read and ordered to be printed with the other reports.

The Board then adjourned.

Probable Reduction in the Cost of Carrying Coal.

A new sectional canal barge has lately been built to run on the Susquehanna and Tidewater Canal, from Columbia to Tidewater, as a coal carrier. The complete success of this barge is likely to lead to the most important results in the coal trade of the Susquehanna valley, since it is now demonstrated that, with barges of this class, the cost of transportation per ton will be sensibly diminished. The new barge is constructed in two sections—each section is 80 feet in length by 15 feet in width—and when loaded carries 250 tons, which is more than double that of the old barges, which carry but 95 tons. The steering apparatus, which is very simple, is at the point of connecting the two sections, and consists merely of the appliance of power to move the sections to the right or left at this point, the slightest angle thus attained giving instant direction to the course of the barge. The same number of mules and hands manage this sectional barge that are required by one of the old 95-ton barges. By this new method 250 tons of coal are shoved with about the same expense as 95 tons are moved by one of the old barges. The large consists of two sections of 160 feet in length, and of a capacity of 100 tons. It is contemplated to increase the length and capacity to 200 tons, or 400 tons to a train of two sections. At present the propelling is done by mules, and only one additional mule is required for the increased weight. Steam can be applied, and with an engine of five horse-power a train with a freight of 800 tons may be propelled. At the present rate of freight and expenses the difference between this and the ordinary barge will give a profit, per train of two sections, of $7,000 in a single year. Arrangements are in progress to build a number of these sectional barges this Winter, in time for the opening of navigation in Spring.

TERRIBLE BOILER EXPLOSION.

Three Persons Fatally and Six Dangerously Injured—Their Names.

A few minutes after 12 o'clock M., yesterday, the boiler connected with the hoisting engine on Pier No. 45, North River, exploded with such terrible force that it was buried into the air a distance of one hundred feet, causing an immense amount of destruction to property, besides injuring two men and a boy fatally, and five or six others seriously. The exploded boiler tore away several heavy timbers composing the pier, demolished the small wooden shed which had sheltered it, and the partition dividing it from the business portion of the pier, and finally fell into the river, near the bows of the steamer Fulton, a distance of over 150 feet from its original resting place. CHRISTIAN GORRY, the engineer, was standing in front of the furnace, and was blown into the river; when rescued he was found to be terribly and fatally scalded and bruised. His son NICHOLAS, aged 16 years, was blacking his father's boots, as he sat upon the swing-piece, a few feet from the engine-house. When the accident occurred he was thrown into the air nearly forty feet, and fell into the river, about fifty feet from the pier. His body had not been recovered up to a late hour. OWEN KELLY, employed on board the steamship City of Baltimore, of the Inman Line, as a fireman, entered an out-house near the hoisting engine a few minutes before the explosion with another fireman, but the latter came away a few seconds before the accident. KELLY was buried beneath the ruins caused by the explosion, as were also several men employed on the pier. KELLY's injuries were of so severe a nature that he died during the afternoon.

Capt. DICKSON, commanding the Twenty-eighth Precinct, arrived soon after the occurrence of the accident with Sergeants CARPENTER and MCDERMOTT and a squad of patrolmen. He endeavored to restore order, and with the assistance of the pier laborers and the crew of the City of Baltimore commenced to extricate those buried beneath the ruins, and examine into the scope and extent of the disaster. The débris was removed and those seriously wounded were carried off to the New-York Hospital in carriages, the remainder being attended by Police Surgeons KENNEDY, PURDY and WATERMAN, who came in obedience to a telegram sent by the Captain to the Central Office. A little boy was, it appears, engaged in fishing on the side of the dock at the time of the explosion, and the boiler passed over and within a few inches of his head, causing him no harm and only a sudden fright. The shattered timbers fell in profusion around him. While the examination of the pier was going on the boy was anxiously searching for his fishing line, but finally retreated to the shore end of the pier, where he formed the centre of attraction to a crowd of loungers.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

The following is a complete list of those injured by the explosion:

CHRISTIAN GORRY, a native of Ireland, 50 years of age, terribly bruised on the head and scalded on the body. Since dead.

NICHOLAS GORRY, aged 16, a native of this City, blown overboard and drowned. Body not recovered.

OWEN KELLY fireman on the City of Baltimore, a native of Ireland, 26 years of age, fatally bruised and scalded. Since dead.

WM. KERR, blacksmith, a native of the United States, 45 years of age, and a resident of Henry-street, Brooklyn. Several ribs broken and dangerously injured. Taken to the New-York Hospital.

THOS. LOFTUS, stevedore, and a native of Scotland, severely bruised by falling timber. Taken to New-York Hospital.

SAMUEL HUTCHINSON, ship carpenter on steamer Fulton, of No. 140 Aden-street, badly bruised. Taken to New-York Hospital.

THOMAS KANE, laborer, of No. 621 west Thirtieth-street, severely scalded and bruised. Taken to New-York Hospital.

ALEXANDER DRYBROUGH, of South Bergen, N. J., a native of Scotland and 51 years of age, slightly scalded and bruised. Carried home by friends.

As already stated several other persons were slightly injured by the mass of flying fragments, but after they had their wounds dressed at the Police-station they were permitted to leave for their several homes.

THE ORIGIN OF THE EXPLOSION

will probably remain a mystery forever, as the only person likely to afford any idea of the cause is beyond recall. In the absence of direct information on this subject it is supposed that the explosion was caused by a defect in the boiler itself, as the fragments of the base yet remaining fixed to the pier, exhibits traces of weakness in one of the sheets composing the boiler-shell. The boiler was of thirty-five horse power, was built in May, 1865, at the North Point Foundry, in Jersey City, and is said have been tested by a pressure of 100 pounds to the square inch. The inquest by the Coroner may throw additional light upon the matter.

The appearance of the pier a few moments after the explosion was a terrible one, and the confusion naturally ensuing among those happening on or near the wharf rendered the scene doubly so. So loud was the report of the explosion that the Police Sergeant on duty in the Greenwich-street Station-house heard it and gave the alarm to the reserve force in the building. They speedily checked the confusion, and a few hours after the wreck was all cleared away, leaving the pier nearly as free for traffic as ever. None of the shipping sustained any damage.

Railroad Improvements in New-Jersey.

The Directors of the New-Jersey Central Railroad, accompanied by a few invited guests, made an excursion over the road from Jersey City to Easton yesterday, to inspect the improvements that have been made on the line during the last year. Among the party were John Taylor Johnston, President of the road, John C. Green, Adam Norrie, Col. Moore, Gen. Cullum, Gen. Newton, A. D. Mellick, senior and junior, Col. Hope. Henry W. Smith, Chancellor Williamson, Judge Maxwell, Judge Packer, Samuel Knox, E. W. Ricker and others. There are few roads leading from New-York on which the improvements have been so liberal and extensive as on this road during the last two years. Commencing with the new wharves, ferry-house and depot of the Company recently completed on the made land south of Jersey City, the Company has extended its improvements all along the line of the road to Easton, constructing everything with an eye to permanence and durability, and without regard to expense. At Fort Johnson, Bergen Point, a large coal depot has been built, which, when completed, will have a capacity of a million tons, and combine every facility for unloading and storing freight. The famous high bridge, twenty miles this side of Easton, has been all filled in with earth and stone, at an expense of $250,000, and now presents a broad and solid roadway over the entire chasm. The same thing has been done with the bridges at Bloomsbury and Springtown, further on, and three miles this side of Easton one of the finest viaducts has been constructed over the Lorpetcong Creek to be found in the country. It is built of solid stone; has five arches, each of seventy-five feet six inches span, and cost upward of $100,000. The road has a double track the entire distance, and arrangements are making for the construction of two more tracks the entire length of the road, to accommodate the immense coal freight from the Lehigh and Lackawana coal regions, all of which is destined to come over this road. While thus providing for the future freighting business of the road, the Company has not been unmindful of the traveling public, whose patronage over the first half of the road has more than doubled in the last two years. They have built three of the finest ferry-boats to be found in our harbor, exclusively for the use of the road, and the passenger cars of the road are unsurpassed in elegance and comfort. The road passes through the richest and pleasantest part of New-Jersey, including in its route the town of Bergen Point, twenty minutes from the City, Roseville, a new and charming spot, forty minutes' ride; Scotch Plains, with its new Fanwood Park, fifty minutes; Plainfield, one hour; Somerville, one hour and twenty minutes, and so on through the beautiful Raritan and Musconetcong valleys, dotted here and there with charming villages, whither our City population, driven out of the metropolis by dirty streets, inconvenient locomotion and high rents, are flocking every year by thousands. Frequent trains are run by the Company to accommodate the increasing travel—no less than fourteen trains per day passing each way at present between this city and Bergen Point. Under the present management the road has become one of the most favorite outlets for the overcrowded population of New-York, which is rapidly making the eastern half of New-Jersey a thickly settled suburb of the metropolis.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

CORONERS' INQUESTS.—An inquest was held yesterday by Coroner SCHIRMER over the body of MARY DELOY, the child whose death by being run over by a Bleecker-street car was recorded in yesterday's TIMES. The jury exonerated the driver, rendering a verdict of "accidental death," and recommending that the Company employ extra horses to draw its cars up the ascent in Elm-street, near Pearl.

....DAVID S. LINNELL, the engineer who received such severe injuries on the 10th inst. at the American Institute Fair, by falling upon the immense fly-wheel of the engine he was exhibiting, died yesterday morning at the New-York Hospital. An inquest was held by Coroner SCHIRMER, and the jury rendered a verdict of "accidental death." The deceased was a native of Rhode Island, and 47 years of age. [illegible] Miss Mary Osborn, living with her mother at No. 12 West [illegible]-street, committed suicide yesterday morning by shooting herself. It appears that she has been ill for some weeks and suffered great pain, to relieve which the physician prescribed morphine. The mother, however, declined to administer the drug, which so worked upon the mind of the daughter that she procured a pistol and shot herself through the breast, death ensuing in a few minutes. Coroner SCHIRMER has been notified to hold an inquest.

MUSIC AT THE CENTRAL PARK TO-DAY.—The Park Commissioners announce that, if the weather be fine, there will be music by the Central Park Band on the Mall to-day, commencing at 3 o'clock P. M. The following is the programme:

PART I.

Salutatory—Park March.
1. Overture—"Mireille" ... Gounod
2. "Park Song on the Lake" ... Mendelssohn
3. Pot-Pourri—"Charivari" ... Hamm

PART II.

4. "Festmarsch aus Tannhauser" ... Wagner
5. Overture—"La Fille du Regiment" ... Donizetti
6. Aria—"Beautiful Isle of the Sea" ... Thomas
7. March—Selections from "La Grand Duchesse" ... Offenbach

PART III.

8. Lanciers—"Sailor Boy" ... Weingarten
9. Waltz—"Immortellen" ... Gungl
10. Scene and Aria—"Don Sebastian" ... Donizetti
11. Galop—"Will you Dance with Me Once Again" ... Dodworth

Finale—"Home Thoughts."

DISHONEST TINSMITH.—CHRISTIAN FLICK, a German, 27 years of age, living at No. 165 Ludlow-street, and a tinsmith by occupation, was arraigned at Jefferson Market yesterday on a charge preferred by JEREMIAH H. DRISCOLL, No. 218 Mercer-street. FLICK has been employed by DRISCOLL for several years, and although tools and materials have for a long time past been missed from the manufactory at frequent intervals, no suspicion of FLICK was entertained until a day or two ago, when DRISCOLL was informed that a quantity of the missing articles were secreted in FLICK's house. Yesterday Officer CORKEY, of the Fifteenth Precinct, arrested FLICK, and searching his residence found implements and materials for the manufacturing of lamps and reflectors to the value of $125, which had been stolen from DRISCOLL's place. The prisoner was committed in default of $1,000 to answer at the Court of General Sessions.

THE NICOLSON PAVEMENT IN NASSAU-STREET.—Workmen are removing a portion of the Nicolson pavement, laid down in Nassau-street about fifteen months ago, for the purpose of making repairs. Water has forced itself through the planks and injured the pavement, which is on a descending grade. The pavement, it seems, was not properly laid in the first instance. The workmen employed were not familiar with that kind of work. The cross-pieces were wedged so firmly that when the pavement became wet it had no room to swell laterally, and, therefore, was warped in the centre. The blocks of the pavement are as good as new. The repairs will be speedily completed.

LADIES' MISSION SOCIETY.—A meeting of the Society of "The Ladies' Mission to the Public Institutions" was held at Calvary Church, corner of Twenty-first-street and Fourth-avenue, yesterday. The Visiting Committee reported that from June 21 to Oct. 18 of the present year four members and substitutes had paid 233 visits, of which 16 were to the Essex-street Jail; 208 to the Tombs, 3 to Sing Sing, and one visit was made to the Ludlow-street Jail. Bellevue Hospital had been visited eight times, and Randall's Island every Sunday.

EMBEZZLEMENT.—LEWIS STODDARD, No. 92 Tompkins Market, made a complaint against his errand boy, CORNELIUS DUGAN, at the Essex Market Police Court yesterday, alleging that he had given the boy a bill for $78 on LANE & SONS, of the American Institute Fair to collect, and that DUGAN having obtained the money had appropriated it to his own use. DUGAN admitted his guilt and was committed for trial.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Yesterday afternoon, JAMES MULLIGAN, aged 14 years, jumped on a train of cars on the Hudson River Railroad, at Forty-fourth-street, and rode up-town as far as Seventy-ninth-street, where he leaped from the platform while the cars were in rapid motion. When picked up, he was found to be severely though not dangerously injured. He was carried to his home, near the scene of the accident.

DEPARTURE OF FOREIGN MAILS.—The steamship Germania having been compelled to return to Liverpool, the foreign mails that were to have been sent by her will be dispatched in the City of Baltimore, which sails at 12 M. to-day from Pier No. 45 North River.

BOARD OF AUDIT.—The Board of Audit met yesterday, and considered the claim of the Hebrew Leader, for $45 for advertising for the City. No other claims being ready, the Board adjourned to Monday next.

LAW REPORTS.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW-YORK.

Eberhard Faber vs. The Schooner Onrust.—Shipman, J.—On the 14th of December, 1865, the libelant chartered the schooner Onrust to bring a load of cedar timber from Bayport, Florida, or some one of several other specified ports adjacent thereto, to New-York. At the time the charter party was signed by the parties the schooner was in New-York, and the instrument recites: "Also it is understood that the vessel is now loading for Key West or Tortugas, and is to proceed thence direct to load on this charter."

In due time the Onrust left New-York and reached Fort Jefferson at the Tortugas, and before the 19th of January, 1866, had discharged her outward cargo and was ready to proceed to Bayport for the purpose of loading under this charter, when she was forcibly seized, by order of the United States military officer commanding at Fort Jefferson, and sent to Key West for a cargo of coal, on the alleged ground that it was necessary in order to work the condenser upon which the post mainly relied for drinking water. To secure the enforcement of the order a sergeant and a file of men were placed on board, and proceeded with the vessel to Key West. She performed the voyage and brought three hundred tons of coal to Tortugas, which she discharged on or before the 9th of February, and was again ready to sail for Bayport, when she was again ordered to Key West by the same officer or by his subordinate, and proceeded under duress to Key West for another cargo of coal, which she delivered at Tortugas, when she was released, and on the 11th of March sailed for Bayport.

The Captain of the Onrust, in both instances, protested against the seizure and enforced services of his vessel and crew.

After her arrival at Bayport she was loaded by the agent of the libelant, under protest that there should be no waiver of the right of the charterer to damages for her failure to proceed direct in the first instance from Tortugas to Bayport, according to the understanding expressed in the charter party.

The schooner did not arrive in New-York till the 24th of April. Between the 15th of March and the 24th of April cedar timber fell in the New-York market. But for the forcible detention by the military officers at Tortugas, she would, in the ordinary course of navigation, have arrived with her cargo at New-York before the fall in the market. The libelant has brought this suit in rem for a breach of the charter-party, on the ground that the schooner did not proceed direct from Tortugas on discharging her outward cargo, but deviated and delayed fifty-one days, and seeks to recover damages in proportion to the decline in the price of cedar timber in the New-York market between the time she would have delivered the cargo there, had there been no delay, and the time she actually delivered it.

The obvious question is, whether the seizure and enforced deviation and delay by the military force at Tortugas, constitutes a breach of the agreement to proceed direct, for which the owners are liable. As there are no exceptions in the charter party under which the deviation can be sheltered or justified, we must look to the general legal import of the contract and the responsibilities under which it placed the owners of the vessel. The point on which the case turns lies in the clause of the charter-party already cited—"Also, it is understood that the vessel is now loading for Key West or the Tortugas, and is to proceed thence direct to load on this charter." What were the obligations assumed by the owners under this clause of the contract? Clearly, not to be at Tortugas, or Bayport, within any specified time. Time is, therefore, not a specific and essential element in the contract. Of course, if the owners had agreed that their vessel should be at Bayport on or before a specified day, then a failure to comply would have been a breach for which they would have been liable. No exceptions of perils of the sea, irresistible force, or inevitable accident were inserted in the charter, and none could have been set up to excuse a failure to be at a given port within a time expressly limited by the contract. It is well-settled law that even the act of God will not excuse the performance of an express and positive stipulation of a valid contract. (School District vs. Dauchy, 25 Conn. Rep., 530.) But the clause of this charter now under consideration is not express as to time. The words, "to proceed thence direct to load on this charter" are not clear and precise when applied to the subject matter—the voyage in question. "Direct" does not mean in a straight line or instanter. The language does not measure the exact obligation imposed by the contract. Here the law steps in and implies that the obligation assumed was to proceed without unreasonable delay and by the usual route. The same legal implication would have sprung from the contract in the absence of the word "direct;" for where the undertaking is to proceed from one port to another, a direct voyage is always prima facie intended. The law implies this, and the legal presumption is conclusive, until rebutted by some custom to deviate or proceed by another route. (Sarony vs. Russell, 3 Pickering Rep., 260.) If the word "direct" had, therefore, been left out of this clause, the law would have raised an implied promise to proceed direct from New-York to Key West or Tortugas, and thence direct to Bayport or some one of the other ports named. The time within which such a promise is to be performed is regulated by law. As the law implies the promise or obligation, so it implies the rule which must govern its performance. No time having been prescribed by the parties, the legal presumption is that they intended a reasonable time.

The case of Duncan vs. Topham (8 C. B. 65 Com. Law Rep. 226) was cited at bar by the libelant. That case held that where a contract was to be performed "directly," it meant something more than a reasonable time, and that the word directly imported "speedily," or at least "as soon as practicable." A glance at that case shows that it was very little like the one now under consideration. The subject matter bore no resemblance to the one we are now considering. The contract itself was the result of a correspondence between the parties, and when expounded with reference to the subject matter, clearly presented a limitation as to time. But if we apply the doctrine of that case to the one now before us, we shall construe the clause of this charter to be an agreement of the owners of the Onrust that she shall proceed from New-York to Key West, or Tortugas, in a reasonable time, and from thence as soon as practicable, or speedily, to load on this charter. Still we have no express stipulation by which time is made an essential element in the contract. We must resort to the rules of law for the measure of the obligation assumed. From New-York to Key West or Tortugas reasonable diligence is required in expediting the voyage by the direct route, and from Tortugas to load on this charter, the highest degree of diligence. It is hardly necessary to cite authorities to show that where a party is bound to the exercise of even the highest degree of diligence, he is not responsible for delay caused by the interposition of irresistible force, where that force confronts and overpowers him without any fault of his own. "By irresistible force is meant such an interposition of human agency, as is, from its nature and power, absolutely uncontrollable." (Story on Bailments, sec. 25.) For delay caused by such a force, a ship bound to proceed on her voyage with any the highest degree of diligence, is no more responsible than she would be for delay caused by lightning or the gale. The most extraordinary diligence cannot go beyond the most exacting fidelity and care in the performance of duty. When these are exhausted in the execution of a contract where no time is expressly prescribed, the obligations of the party upon whom the duty rests are discharged. In the present case the master of the Onrust was entirely faithful and diligent. He not only refused to charter his vessel to the military officers at Tortugas for the purpose of transporting this coal, but he formally protested against the seizure of his vessel, and submitted only to an overpowering force. For this enforced detention, whether lawful or unlawful, the vessel is no more responsible than she would have been if the same delay had resulted from her being driven out of her course by a storm which she could not resist. It follows therefore that, as the contract only bound the owners to prosecute the voyage with diligence, and that diligence was exercised, the delay caused by military force constituted no breach.

In view of this conclusion it is hardly necessary to dwell on the cases cited by the libelant, to show that a party may be responsible for the non-performance of a contract, where his failure has been caused by the interposition of illegal force. I will, however, notice one, for the purpose of suggesting in the same connection the distinction which separates that class of cases from the one now before us. Gosling vs. Higgins (1 Camb. Rep. 451) was an action for the non-delivery of ten pipes of wine, shipped at the Island of Madeira, on board of a vessel of which the defendant was owner, to be carried to Jamaica, and from thence to England. When the vessel arrived off Jamaica, she was seized, with her cargo, for a supposed violation of the revenue laws, and there condemned; but upon appeal to the Privy Council in England the sentence of condemnation was reversed. A verdict for the plaintiff was ordered by Lord Ellenborough, who remarked to the defendant's counsel, "You have an action against the officers. The shipper can only look to the owner or master of the ship." Here it will be seen was a breach of an express and essential stipulation in the bill of lading, which was to deliver the wine in England. No delivery was ever made. In other words, there was no performance. But the present controversy does not arise out of the breach of any express stipulation. The voyage was performed and the cargo delivered. The only pretended breach consists in not proceeding from Tortugas to Bayport in proper time. But no particular time was stipulated in the contract, and the only time to which the vessel was bound, was that implied by law from the use of the word "direct," which, under the strictest construction, can only mean that period necessary, in the use of the highest diligence, under all the circumstances, to accomplish the voyage. The distinction is obvious. In one case there was a breach of an express stipulation in the contract. In the other the time of performance was prolonged by no fault of the master, but as time was not made of the essence of the contract, enforced delay was no breach.

It is obvious that the claim of the libelant would stand upon no higher ground if the word "direct" were held to apply primarily to the route rather than the time of the voyage from Tortugas to Bayport. The word applied to either aspect of the case, would be governed by the same rules of law. But in fact the gravamen of the libelant's complaint is not that the Onrust did not pursue the customary route from Tortugas to Bayport, but that she did not start from the former port at the time she ought.

Let a decree be entered dismissing the libel with costs.

For libelant, Mr. Lord; for claimants, Messrs. Benedict, Tracy & Benedict.

TOWAGE CONTRACT—APPORTIONMENT.

Christopher Byrne vs. The Steamtug Quickstep.—The libel in this case was filed by the owner of the canal-boat Citizen to recover about $8,500 damages sustained by the sinking of the boat while being towed by the Quickstep from New-York to New-Brunswick. The libelant alleged that the sinking was occasioned by fault of the tug in backing against the canal-boat in an effort to pick up another boat of the tow which had become detached. The owners of the Quickstep claimed, on the other hand, that there was no negligence on her part but that the accident was occasioned by a heavy storm and negligence on the part of the canal-boat.

Judge SHIPMAN, without discussing the questions in the case, held that both parties were in fault, and directed a decree apportioning the damage.

For libelant, Mr. Scudder; for claimants, Mr. Donohue and Mr. Hackett.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS—OCT. 18.

Before Judge Sutherland.

THE RIGHT OF A POLICE JUSTICE TO COMMIT FOR CONTEMPT.

The People ex rel. John McGloin, a Police Officer, &c.—In this proceeding a writ of habeas corpus was issued by the Supreme Court, for the discharge of the relator. The case was argued yesterday, when the following facts appeared: McGloin is a policeman of the Twenty-second Precinct. A few days ago he arrested a liquor-dealer for keeping open his place until 12:40 A. M. on Sunday. The prisoner was taken before Justice Connolly, of the Fourth District Police Court. McGloin states that Justice Connolly took sides with the prisoner and his witnesses, and refused to listen to the evidence which he, the Policeman, could give as to the violation of the law. However that may be, some warm words took place between the Justice and the Policeman; the latter was ordered out of the Court room by the Magistrate; the Policeman did not depart promptly but made use of the following words among others: "I have a right to be here; as good a right as you have. I do my duty better than you do yours." The Justice thereupon proceeded to punish the Policeman for a contempt of Court, and fined him $10, and ten days' imprisonment,—to stand committed until the fine is paid. This was on the 13th or 14th inst. The writ of habeas corpus was obtained and McGloin's discharge from prison asked, on the ground that there is no law which authorizes a Police Justice to punish for contempt.

Judge SUTHERLAND dismissed the writ and remanded the prisoner. In doing so he said that although he had been referred to no statutory provision which gives a Police magistrate the power to commit for contempt, he thought there was a general principle of law, as well as of common sense, which gave a Court the power to maintain order to preserve its dignity. The law which empowers a Judge to hold a Court, necessarily, by implication at least, carries with it the right to preserve order, and to punish persons for contempt.

For the relator Mr. Bois; for the people, Assistant District-Attorney Blunt.

THE PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY LITIGATION—JUDGE INGRAHAM'S ORDER STAYING PROCEEDINGS VACATED.

The People ex rel. George B. Hartson and the Same ex rel. James E. Muns vs. The Pacific Mail Steamship Company, Respondents.—This case came before the Court again yesterday on an order to show cause why the order made by Judge Ingraham on the 16th inst., staying the proceedings of the relators, should not be vacated, and the latter allowed to go on with the inspection of the books of the Company.

After considerable informal discussion the Court decided to grant the following order:

An order having been granted by Justice Ingraham, bearing date Oct. 16, 1867, requiring the relator to show cause on the 21st day of October inst., why a stay of proceedings should not be granted, as therein more fully stated, and an order having been made and granted by Justice Sutherland at Special Term on the 17th day of October, 1867, amending said order of Justice Ingraham by changing the time for showing cause to this day; now, on reading and filing the affidavit of Geo. B. Hartson, verified Oct. 18, 1867, and on reading the affidavit used on said motion for a peremptory mandamus, and after hearing Mr. James Emott and Mr. A. J. Vanderpoel of counsel for relator, and Mr. John N. Whiting, of counsel for the respondent:

It is ordered that said motion for a stay of proceedings be and the same is hereby denied, and that the stay of proceedings granted by Justice Ingraham be and the same is hereby vacated. And it is further ordered that the inspection to be made under the mandamus is limited so as to authorize the inspection and taking copies of such entries in books as exhibit or disclose only the names and numbers of shares of the stockholders of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company for two years last past, and the transfers of such shares, or one or the other of such facts.

For relators, Mr. Emott, Mr. Vanderpoel and Mr. Brownell; for the respondents, Mr. Whiting.

SUPREME COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I.

Before Judge Monell.

ACTION FOR BREACH OF PROMISE.

Susan L. Corwin vs. Daniel W. Terry.—The plaintiff herein is a widow, the defendant a widower, and each one over forty years. The complaint alleges a courtship and promise to marry on the part of defendant, at several different times during the year 1866 and the former part of 1867. The defendant represented to plaintiff that he had an income equal to $500 per day, also a large amount of real estate. An answer was put in, but little could be gleaned from it beyond the fact that the reason why the defendant did not perform his promise to marry the plaintiff, was that he had two prior engagements. No appearance was put in at the trial. Counsel for the plaintiff, Mr. Schaffer, urged the jury to give the plaintiff a verdict which would be equal to her right of dower in the defendant's estate, in case a marriage ceremony had been performed. Judge MONELL, in his charge, said the jury had the right to take into consideration the ages of the respective parties. After a long deliberation the jury announced that they were unable to agree, and were therefore discharged.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART II—OCT. 18.

Before Judge Jones and a Jury.

THE LAW OF THE ROAD—DAMAGES RESULTING FROM A COLLISION.

George F. Gantz vs. Benjamin W. Jones.—This action was brought to recover damages resulting from a collision which took place on the 28th of March, 1867, on the road between Kingsbridge and Yonkers. The plaintiff's wife was driving a horse and wagon down, when she was met by the defendant going in the opposite direction in his own wagon. The plaintiff's wagon, it appears, had the right of way, and when the defendant turned out a wheel of his wagon caught in between the wheels of plaintiff's vehicle, which caused both parties to come to a stand-still. Immediately after the plaintiff's horse took fright, ran away, broke the wagon and harness, and injured the horse so much that it has since been nearly worthless. It was for these damages that the action was brought. After listening to the evidence in the case, the jury, under the charge of the Judge, rendered a verdict of $400 for the plaintiff.

For plaintiff, Barney, Butler and Parsons; for defendant, Marsh, Coe and Wallis.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

Before Judge Ingraham.

SENTENCE OF VINCENT CODY AND THOS. E. LAMBERT.

At the opening of the Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday morning, Vincent Cody, convicted of murder in the second degree, in having killed Prof. John B. Livingston in an ale house in Jefferson-street, on the night of April 17 last, was brought up for sentence. He protested earnestly against the verdict of the jury, and still persisted in asserting that the pistol was accidentally discharged during the struggle between himself and Livingston. The Judge said that in his opinion, the evidence was strong enough to have justified a verdict of murder in the first degree, and the prisoner might congratulate himself upon his good fortune in escaping the penalty of death. The sentence of the Court was that Cody should be imprisoned at Sing Sing for the term of his natural life.

Thos. E. Lambert, who was found guilty of arson in the first degree, in having fired the dwelling-house No. 65 Oliver-street, on the 10th of August last, was then arraigned. He was sentenced to the State Prison for eleven years and six months.

DECISIONS.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS—OCT. 18.

By Judge Sutherland.

Charles McDonald et al. vs. The New-York Life Insurance Company; findings settled. Samuel T. Ross vs. Wm. B. Ross; report of referee confirmed and order granted. In the matter of the application to sell the real estate of Wm. Campbell et al.; report of referee confirmed and order granted. In the matter of the application to sell the real estate of John R. Bennett, &c.; same decision.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Russel.

The following cases were disposed of yesterday at the Court of General Sessions. Mr. R. C. Hutchings, Assistant District-Attorney, represented the people.

Gustave Gonzales pleaded guilty of an attempt at grand larceny, in having stolen a coat and vest, worth $51, from Louis Martinez, of No. 54 West Eleventh-street, on the 13th ult. The prisoner had previously enjoyed a good reputation, but becoming reduced in circumstances, took the clothing to get the means of living. Sentence was suspended, and Gonzales was discharged.

Ann Egan, al. s Anna Williams, alias "Gentle Annie," pleaded guilty of picking the pocket of Dora Hopman, of No. 34 Bethune-street, on the 11th inst. She was sentenced to the State Prison for four years.

Stephen Jerome and Thomas Devere, two boys, admitted their guilt, when arraigned for burglariously entering a furnishing-goods store, at No. 145 Grand-street, on the 4th inst. The prisoners carried off a quantity of goods of the value of $1,655. They were sentenced to the State Prison for four years each.

Anna Bellinger was tried upon a charge of larceny from the person, preferred against her by Martin Neustadt, of No. 240 First-avenue. The complainant swore that on the evening of the 25th of September last he was accosted by the prisoner in the Bowery, and while they were conversing together she snatched his watch and ran away with it. The jury found her guilty, and she was sentenced to the State Prison for five years.

Michael Riley was tried and convicted under an indictment charging him with stealing $188 worth of varieties from Mr. Jacob Stout, of No. 22 Vandam-street, on the 21st of August last. The prisoner was sentenced to State Prison for five years.

Chas. E. Baldwin, a Pennsylvania lawyer, was placed upon trial for having forged a note for $300, purporting to have been drawn by C. O. Childs, of Titusville, Penn., and indorsed by other parties residing in the Keystone State. This note the prisoner took to the office of Messrs. Bentley & Burton, in Beaver-street, and representing himself to be greatly in need of funds, sold it for $250. The prisoner's counsel labored to prove the innocence of his client, but of course without avail, and the jury convicted without retiring from the box.

Judge RUSSEL, in passing sentence, said that he had received communications from the civil authorities of Pennsylvania, and the military authorities of South Carolina, showing that the prisoner was a notorious forger and "confidence man;" that he had thus victimized many persons, and had served a term in the Philadelphia Penitentiary. The Court should therefore sentence him to the State Prison for five years.

Jas. S. Ilson, a young man, was tried for false pretences, in having collected $5 from Mr. Tunis H. Blackwell, of No. 379 Broadway, by representing that he was raising subscriptions for a pilot, who had lost his boat at sea. The evidence was not sufficiently strong to secure a conviction, and under the direction of the Court, the jury acquitted the prisoner.

The Court adjourned until 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

SUPREME COURT—BROOKLYN.

Before Judge Gilbert,

IMPORTANT TO MILITIAMEN.

In the matter of the habeas corpus in behalf of Charles T. Whyhew.—On Wednesday last the petitioner, Charles T. Whyhew, was arrested on a warrant issued by James Packer, as President of the regimental Court-martial of the Fifth-sixth Regiment National Guard, for non-payment of the sum of $45, imposed by the Court-martial for non-attendance at drills and parades. An application was made to Judge GILBERT for a writ of habeas corpus, and served on the keeper of the Kings County Jail, requiring him to produce Mr. Whyhew in Court. The petitioner was immediately produced in Court, and a return made to the writ.

Counsel for the petitioner, Thomas E. Pearsall, moved for the discharge of petitioner from arrest, because the warrant did not show that Whyhew was a member of the Fifty-sixth Regiment, and that he was summoned to attend the Court-martial and failed to appear, and did not show how James Packer became President of the Court-martial, and therefore the same was void.

Mr. James Packer appeared for the military authorities, and argued that the law provided that the Commander-in-Chief of the militia should prescribe rules and regulations, forms and precedents for the use and government of the militia of this State, and that the Governor under that law adopted and prescribed the forms and warrant in this proceeding, and they were correct.

Mr. Pearsall claimed that when the Legislature gave the Governor power to adopt rules and forms for the government of the militia, it was intended that such forms should be according to law. The several questions were argued at considerable length by the counsel for the respective parties.

The Judge took the papers and will render a decision on Friday next, which is looked for with great interest, as a number of warrants have been issued for other delinquent members of the Fifty-sixth Regiment.

BROOKLYN CITY COURT.

Before Judge Thompson.

Gartner vs. Aiken.—Plaintiff claimed damages for a malicious prosecution by which he had been charged with "malicious trespass" by defendant. The fact was, that he had simply taken some dirt from the "street portion" of one of defendant's lots; but as he had received permission from David Hoyt, the owner of the dirt, he rather thought the charge savored of malice. Verdict for plaintiff of $150.

BROOKLYN COURT OF SESSIONS.

Before Judge Dikeman and Associates.

HORSE THIEF.

Thomas Jackson (colored) was tried and convicted of stealing a horse from James Smith on the 6th of August. He exchanged the horse for another with Frederick Busick, of East New-York. The facts were proven clearly, and Jackson sent to the Penitentiary for one year.

STEALING PENNIES.

John Moran stole $22 in pennies from the liquor-store of P. McCormack on the 10th of September. A companion betrayed him, and appeared before the Court as a witness against him. Moran was found guilty and sent to State Prison for three years.

LARCENY OF CLOTHING.

Richard Young pleaded guilty to the charge of larceny. He stole some clothing from T. W. Young on the 26th of August, and admitted the fact. State Prison for five years.

The following are the

SENTENCES

in the Court of Sessions pronounced yesterday:

W. J. M. Lean, false pretences, pleaded guilty, sent to House of Refuge.

James McCuren, convicted for assault on an officer, was sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

Y. Wood pleaded guilty to grand larceny, and was sent to Sing Sing for three years.

J. Scheier pleaded guilty to grand larceny, and was sentenced to three years in State prison.

ARRAIGNMENTS.

D. Volton, grand larceny, pleaded not guilty.

G. Walker, carrying concealed weapons, pleaded not guilty.

J. Davis, burglary, pleaded not guilty.

J. Hammell, forgery, pleaded not guilty.

J. Ward, burglary and grand larceny, pleaded not guilty.

Thomas Palmer, grand larceny, pleaded not guilty.

Dennis Ryan, rape, pleaded not guilty.

FRIDAY, Oct. 18—P. M.

The war-cloud in Europe had less effect on the Gold Room to-day than was anticipated, although the Cable news in the morning papers was generally thought to be quite threatening. The Cash Gold continues scarce, but withal the buyers for a rise were made to put the cash price above 144¼@144½ ⅌ cent., and the closing sales, for delivery to-morrow, were at 144¼@144½ ⅌ cent. The difficulty in their way is the abundant supply of first-class Bankers' Exchange and a large offering of Merchant bills against the shipments of Produce. The former are quoted this afternoon at 108¾@108⅞, and some heavy sales (to the Bankers) of the latter at 107¾ ⅌ cent. These rates preclude all immediate prospect of Gold shipments, even if War should become more imminent on the Continent. Short sight bills on London are not relatively so cheap as before War news and the partial decline in U. S. 5.20s, resulting from the agitation on the Continental Exchanges. We quote three days' sight at 109½@109⅝ ⅌ cent.

There is a very sudden let up in the Money market to-day, so far as the Stock Brokers are interested as borrowers. The demand was less than at any time within three or four days, and there was more Money offering at call on the Public Funds and the Railway Stocks. Most of these offers, however, are from private lenders. The Mercantile demand at Bank and the applications for short-date discounts from the Western Banks continue. The movements of Produce through the Canals and by Rail are very active, and some inconvenience is still experienced at the Grain ports on the Lakes from inadequate Money facilities to do all the business that offers. In the direction of Cincinnati and St. Louis, however, Exchange is slightly in favor of New-York, and at New-Orleans checks on this City are ⅛@¼ ⅌ cent. premium. It seems quite evident that the demand for Currency to move the Cotton crop will be later than usual, and the price of Cotton being only one-half that of last year, the amount likely to be required from New-York late in November and December will, we believe, produce little or no disturbance to our Money market beyond maintaining a stiff 7 ⅌ cent. rate in Wall-street.

The Public Funds to-day are not firm. There is about as much speculation going on against as in favor of prices, and to no very large extent either way. The bearish interest has the advantage of the comparative absence of an investment demand for the new 5-20s, and of weaker prices abroad for the old issues of 1862-65. The changes since yesterday in quotations are not important.

The Railway and Miscellaneous shares at the Stock Exchange fluctuated less violently than yesterday, as a rule, though Erie, as leading the Railway list, sold as low as 70⅞ and as high as 72⅜ ⅌ cent., and quoted about 3 o'clock at 71⅜ ⅌ cent. The business in this and the Western Stocks continues large. Among the latter, Northwest Common shows the greatest activity and the least disposition to recede in price with the other ups and downs of the market. Reading Stock was sold down to 101@100¾ @⅞ ⅌ cent., supposed on Philadelphia orders. The Cleveland and Toledo Stock, ex 25 ⅌ cent. scrip dividend, is selling at 106@107 ⅌ cent. There was a good inquiry for Western Telegraph early in the day at 34⅞@35, but the advance gave way to 34 ⅌ cent. at the Afternoon Boards. In Pacific Mail the interest continues quite lively, and the sales to-day were at 147@146⅞ ⅌ cent. It is understood that the Opposition to the present management have succeeded through the Courts not only in throwing open the books and transfers of the Company to the inspection of all stockholders, but in restraining the sale or transfer of the 26,667 shares of capital taken back from Mr. Jacobs last winter, and any attempt to vote upon it at the annual meeting in November. They further allege that while the present rate of Dividend, 12 ⅌ cent., amounts, on the capital outstanding, (exclusive of the above-named 26,667 shares,) of $17,333,000, to only $2,080,000, the cash profits of the line are believed to be nearly or quite double this sum, and ought to be more closely divided, while we have no reason to doubt this allegation, but, on the contrary, inclines to believe that the present business of the Company would as fully justify 20 ⅌ cent. a year, as before the enlargement of the Capital and the success of the Oriental Line, we must do the management the justice to say that they have carried this enterprise to great prosperity, and made its Stock worth intrinsically far more than the present market price or the present reduced rate of Dividend—which it was understood last Winter would only be temporary—would indicate.

The State Bonds were higher on both Tennessees and Missouris. The recent decline in the former has evidently induced a counter-revolution against the parties who deemed the Bonds a good sale at 60 ⅌ cent.

After the late Boards and the Gold Room adjourned, the price of Gold was barely 144 ⅌ cent. The Public Funds steady. The Railways lower in the Long Room and on the Street, apparently with some considerable hammering going on to make lower figures for the market to-morrow. Between 5 and 6 o'clock P. M. the following quotations were made as compared with Thursday night—Reading being especially depressed:

Internal Revenue Decision.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
WASHINGTON, Oct. 9, 1867.

GENTLEMEN: I have received your communication of the 4th inst., in which you state that the new regulations in regard to the transportation of cotton make no provision for cotton raised in your State, and request that cotton raised in Missouri be allowed to be shipped to St. Louis, subject to the order of the Collector of that District, to be delivered to the consignee only on the payment of the tax. These regulations apply to Missouri as well as to any other cotton-producing State, and cotton can be shipped to St. Louis under the Assessor's permit, as you suggest.

In regard to designating points for weighing and marking cotton in your State, I would say that weighers have already been appointed at New-Madrid and Cape Girardeau, and other places will be designated when Collector ZWART, of the Second District—who has been written to for his opinion as to what places it will be proper to designate—has been heard from.

Very respectfully,
E. A. ROLLINS,
Commissioner.

Messrs. BUSHEY & DRUCKER, St. Louis, Mo.

FISH—The demand has been rather more active, especially for Cod and Herring, and prices have been generally well supported. We quote: Dry Cod, $5 50@$6 50 ⅌ cwt.; No. 1 Mackerel, $18 75@$21; No. 2 do., $12 75@$13 50; No. 3 do., $10 25@$11 50 ⅌ bbl.; Pickled Herring, $4 00@$5 50 ⅌ bbl.; Smoked Herring, 40c.@45c. for Scale, and 20c.@25c. for No. 1 ⅌ box.

FLOUR AND MEAL—State and Western Flour has been freely offered and has been moderately inquired for at a further reduction of 10c.@25c. ⅌ bbl. Sales have been reported since our last of 12,250 bbls., including poor to choice Superfine State and Western at $8 85@$9 75; very poor to good extra State at $10@$10 50; good to choice extra State at $10 70@$11; poor to good shipping brands of round-hoop extra Ohio at $10 45@$11 25 ⅌ bbl. We now quote:

Superfine State and Western	$8 85@$9 75
Extra State	10 00@11 00
Extra Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, &c	10 15@14 25
Extra Ohio, round-hoop, shipping brands	10 45@11 25
Extra Ohio, trade and family brands	11 25@14 50
Extra Genesee	11 50@14 50
Common to choice extra Missouri	14 00@16 75

Southern Flour continues inactive at drooping prices; sales have been reported since our last of 500 bbls., at $10 75@$16 25 for common to very superior extra, ⅌ bbl. Rye Flour continues in fair request at $7 35@$9 50 for inferior to very choice, ⅌ bbl.; sales 350 bbls. Corn Meal is in active request at $6 50 for City, $6 75 for Jersey, $7 for Calorie, and $7 50@$7 75 for Brandywine, ⅌ bbl.; sales 1,250 bbls. Of California Flour sales were reported of 450 sacks at $12 25@$13 75 ⅌ bbl. of 196 lbs. Buckwheat Flour is in better demand at $3 87@$4 12 ⅌ 100 lbs.

GRAIN—Wheat has been pressed on the market again to-day at decidedly lower prices. The demand has been moderate, mainly for export. Sales have been reported since our last of 141,000 bushels, including very choice White Michigan at $3 35; No. 1 Spring at $2 27@$2 31; No. 2 do. at $2 20@$2 22, chiefly at $2 21, with a few loads of extra do. as high as $2 25; No. 3 do. at $2 16@$2 18 ⅌ bushel. Corn has been more freely offered and purchased at lower prices. Sales have been reported since our last of 12,500 bushels, at $1 37½@$1 40, as extremes, the latter rate for broken lots Mixed Western, in store and afloat, closing at $1 38 for prime, afloat; $1 35@$1 37 for unsound ⅌ bushel. Rye continues heavy; sales have been made of 14,750 bushels, including Western at $1 60@$1 65, and State at $1 70 ⅌ bushel. Barley has been in fair demand at easier prices. Sales since our last, 245,000 bushels at $1 53@$1 58 for Canada West, and $1 40@$1 45 for Western per bushel. Oats have been depressed and lower. We quote new Western, at from 81c.@83½c., here and to arrive ⅌ bushel; sales 85,000 bushels, mainly to arrive.

HAY—North River bale continues in moderate demand at 70c.@75c. for shipping, and $1@$1 40 for local use, ⅌ 100 lbs. Straw is in less request at 65c.@95c. ⅌ 100 lbs.

HOPS—Have been in pretty fair request, but at less buoyant prices, including American at 35c.@70c. for new; older growths at 10c.@50c., and Foreign at 40c.@85c. Prices Current of Hops in the New-York Market: New-York State, Common to Fair, new, 35c.@45c. ⅌ lb.; New-York State, Good to Prime, new, 50c.@55c. ⅌ lb.; New-York State, Choice to Fancy, new, 60c.@65c. ⅌ lb.; Eastern, Common to Prime, new, 40c.@50c.; Choice to Fancy do., 55c.@65c. ⅌ lb.; Michigans, Common to Prime, new, 40c.@60c. ⅌ lb.; Wisconsins, Prime to Fancy, new, 60c.@70c. ⅌ lb.; Yearlings, of all grades, 30c.@50c. ⅌ lb.; Old Olds, 10c.@30c. ⅌ lb.; Canadian, Choice to Fancy, 55c.@65c. ⅌ lb. The week's business Mr. EMMET WELLS notices thus: "We have to report a dull and drooping market. The stringency in the money market has tended to check operations, and dealers and speculators who have been paying extravagant cash prices for Wisconsin Hops are very reluctant to sell to brewers on four or six months' credit, particularly to those whose paper they find it difficult to negotiate. Prices certainly are not as firm as last week, but as we hear of no concessions on the part of holders we continue our quotations without change. With a continuance of the present stagnation in the trade, however, a decline in prices is inevitable. In any event, should a decline take place, it will be more the result of a tight money market than anything else, as holders will not be apt to submit to any material concession unless forced to do so by the necessities of their pecuniary position. Exports for the week, to London, 12 bales; to Canada, 2 bales. Foreign Markets—London advices down to Oct. 5 report that market dull and depressed, with scarcely any demand for their own Hops. Prices were steadily declining, and showed a decline of 40s. ⅌ cwt. from the commencement of the season. The majority of English growers had withdrawn their Hops from sale, and consumers were gradually supplying their wants with foreign descriptions, freely obtained at 30s. ⅌ cwt. lower than their own growth. The Continental markets, with the exception of Bavaria, are reported on the decline. Fine Belgians were offered at £5 10s.; German and French, (fine,) £6 6s., and fine Bavarians, £7@£7 10s. The quantity on offer was very large."

HIDES—Have been quite dull since our last, at drooping prices.

LEATHER—Sole has been rather lightly dealt in at previous quotations.

METALS—Have been very moderately inquired for, including Ingot Copper at 24c.@25½c. ⅌ lb.; No. 1 American Pig Iron, $43 50@$44; Scotch Pig, $41@$45; English and American Bar Iron, refined, $85@$90 ⅌ ton; Pig Lead, $6 50@$6 87½, gold, ⅌ 100 lbs.; Foreign Spelter, 6½c.@6¾c., in gold, ⅌ lb.; Straits Tin, 25½c.@26c., in gold, ⅌ lb.; Banca Tin, 26½c.@27c., in gold, ⅌ lb.; Zinc, 11½c.@11¾c. ⅌ lb.

MOLASSES—Has been in fair request but at drooping prices, including Porto Rico at 53c.@70c.; Cuba at 35c.@56c.; English Islands at 56c.@57c. ⅌ gallon.

Value of Massachusetts State Notes and Securities.

From the Worcester Spy, Oct. 16.

A Committee of the Executive Council, of which Hon. CHARLES ADAMS, Jr., Councillor for this District, was Chairman, has recently made a report of considerable interest concerning the value of the several funds represented by bonds, notes, stocks, and other securities in the charge of the Treasurer of the Commonwealth. The funds are fifteen in number, and with a single exception, (the Boston and Lowell Railroad Stock,) they are all now worth as much as, and many of them more than cost: in the aggregate representing a present market value of nearly one million four hundred thousand dollars above the original investments. The whole amount of these funds, predicated on the original investments, is $10,369,124 22. The present market value of the securities is $11,706,865 25. The most noticeable increase has taken place in the value of the securities composing the school fund, amounting to about half a million dollars, or twenty-five per cent. over the original investment. This fund was invested to a large amount in Massachusetts Eastern Railroad bond, but especially in Western Railroad stock, both of which now bear a heavy premium. In addition to this, a stock dividend of seventeen hundred and twenty-nine shares of the stock of the Western Railroad has recently been received, the present market value of which is two hundred and thirty-eight thousand six hundred and two dollars ($238,602). This amount cannot, under the opinion of the Attorney-General, be disposed of as income, but must be considered as a part of the fund. The increase of the other funds is derived from the ordinary sources, created with the funds themselves for their enlargement.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

The revolution in Italy is still progressing, the insurgents apparently meeting with success. Gen. MENOTTI GARIBALDI, with a large force, is reported as having arrived in the immediate vicinity of Rome and was advancing upon that city. The Papal army was being reinforced by volunteers recruited in France.

A rumor prevailed in Paris that the fleet of French transports lying at Toulon had received orders to prepare to sail for Rome.

The troops of VICTOR EMMANUEL still guard the frontiers of the Papal Provinces, and prevent, as far as possible, volunteers joining the Garibaldian army.

It was reported in Paris that the plan of insurrection in the City of Rome had been divulged, and that many of the leading insurgents had been arrested and imprisoned.

A dinner was given on Thursday evening, at Manchester, England, to the Cabinet. Earl DERBY, in a speech, defended the action of the Government on the Reform question. Lord STANLEY spoke in regard to the Alabama claims, and seems to have intimated that the difficulty would be amicably settled.

Admiral FARRAGUT entertained the Lords of the Admiralty on board the Franklin at Portsmouth on Thursday.

Capt. F. E. DE BILLE, late Secretary of the Danish Legation, has been appointed Minister to the United States.

GENERAL.

The Canadians on the border are expecting another raid by the Fenians about the time of our Fall elections. A correspondent at Ottawa reports the discovery at Pottsdam of four thousand stand of arms and a lot of cavalry saddles. The Canadian Government feels sufficiently anxious in the matter to have spies watching on the border.

Seven men were severely injured on Thursday at Fair Haven, Vt., by the explosion of a quantity of gunpowder in a quarry where they were blasting. Two kegs of gunpowder which had been poured into a crevice, ignited from fire probably deposited there by a previous blast. Three of the men are supposed to be fatally injured.

Mrs. CAROLINE WARE, housekeeper in a family residing in Boston, was burned to death, and a German girl named WATTS, employed in the same house, was fearfully burned by the ignition of a can of benzine with which they were cleansing furniture.

LOCAL.

WILLIAM MURPHY, who was convicted by a Military Commission, at St. Louis during the war, of steamboat burning on the Mississippi River and sentenced to the Penitentiary, was yesterday brought before the United States Circuit Court on a motion to discharge him from custody. After hearing the argument, Judge MILLER decided that the tribunal before which he was tried was unconstitutional, and that, therefore, the prisoner must be discharged. He added that as the trial was illegal, MURPHY was liable to a civil prosecution for his offences, the same as if he had never been brought to trial. On the application of the District Attorney the prisoner was remanded to allow time for the commencement of a civil prosecution. MURPHY has already served two years in the Penitentiary.

The case of the mandamus against the Pacific Mail Steamship Company was before the Court again yesterday, on a motion made by the relators to vacate an ex parte order issued on the 16th inst. by Judge INGRAHAM, staying all proceedings on the part of the relators as to the inspection of the Company's books. Judge SUTHERLAND has vacated the order of Judge INGRAHAM, and in some respects modified the provisions of the mandamus.

JOHN McGLOIN, a policeman of the Twenty-second Precinct, was brought before the Supreme Court yesterday, and his discharge from prison asked, on the ground that Justice CONNOLLY, of the Fourth District Police Court, has no right, according to law, to commit a person for contempt of Court. Judge SUTHERLAND, after hearing the facts of the case, discharged the writ and remanded the prisoner.

A report from South Carolina states that a negro riot had occurred at Picken's Court-house. A meeting of negroes was disturbed by a drunken white man, whereupon the negroes proceeded to the rooms of a debating Society and commenced an attack upon the members (white). One man named HUNNICUT, a non-resident, was killed. The military had been called upon to restore quiet.

The Episcopal Board of Missions met again yesterday, and interesting discussions took place relative to the missions to the freedmen; agencies to the dioceses on the subject of missions generally; the mission work among the Indians, and the spiritual condition of Maine. The Board sat throughout the entire day, and adjourned finally last evening.

At the Court of General Sessions yesterday, THOS. E. BALDWIN, a notorious forger from Pennsylvania, was convicted and sentenced to the State Prison for five years. A number of other prisoners were tried, and most of them convicted and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment.

At the Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday, Judge INGRAHAM sentenced VINCENT CODY to the State Prison for life; and THOMAS E. LAMBERT to the same institution for 11 years and six months. The former was convicted of murder in the second degree, and the latter of arson in the first degree.

At a few minutes after 12 M. yesterday, the boiler of a steam engine used for hoisting on Pier No. 45, North River, exploded, killing three men, including the engineer, and seriously wounding six others. The cause of the catastrophe is unexplained.

A verdict of $400 was rendered in the Superior Court yesterday, in the action entitled GEORGE F. GANTZ vs BENJAMIN W. JONES. This case involves the construction of the law relating to drivers of vehicles in our streets.

The Union Republican County Convention met last evening at the Headquarters, corner of Twenty-second-street and Broadway, and made nominations for Supervisors, District Attorney and Coroners.

Breadstuffs were again much lower yesterday, but in fair request at the reduced figures. Pork, Lard, Bacon, Butter and Cheese were pretty freely dealt in. Cotton was a shade cheaper. Freights were more active and a trifle lower.

In the line of family marketing more activity was reported in the leading articles, especially in meat, fish, fruit and vegetables. The changes in prices were not important. Butter and eggs were a shade dearer and less plenty.

The Democratic Party and the South —The Real Issue.

Senator YATES, in the letter read at the Cooper Institute the other evening, tersely indicated the prospective result of the restoration of the Democratic Party to power. "No one can doubt," he wrote, that "the result would be the immediate recognition of the revolted States as lawful States in the Union, and the admission to seats in the Senate and House of Representatives of the leaders of the rebellion, to resume their old influence and power in the politics of the nation." In other words, "The triumph of the Democratic Party would be the reopening of every question settled by the war."

The motive of the Democratic Party is manifest. Its chance of restoration to power is dependent upon the readmission of the Southern States to Congress, free from the conditions now being enforced. On the attainment of this object the very existence of the party is contingent. For with all its numerical strength in the North—notwithstanding its gains in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and the vigor with which it is fighting in New-York and other States—the fact is indisputable that the salvation or the destruction of the Democracy is involved in the future of the South. Let it come back as though no rebellion had occurred—with Slavery overthrown, indeed, but with all the appliances of the slave system in full operation as before the war—and the reëstablishment of Democratic authority over the land would be simply a question of time. On the other hand, bring the South into the Union subject to the terms and governed by the influences of the reconstruction acts—with the freedmen enfranchised, the prominent rebels excluded from office, and the local organizations checked at the outset by the restraining hand of Congress—and Southern representation will thenceforward throw its weight adversely to the pretensions of Democracy. Thus reconstructed, the Government of the Union will be beyond the reach of the present Democratic leaders.

While, then, we are bound to confess that certain features of the Congressional plan were framed with a view to partisan advantage, it is equally clear that the course of the Democratic opposition is controlled by no higher considerations than those of party profit. Here, however, the analogy ends. Beyond this point there is not the shadow of resemblance. The reconstruction measures are warped by a partisan bias, but at least their general scope harmonizes with the objects which animated the North in the prosecution of the war. Granting that the experiment of universal negro suffrage is beset with difficulty, and that the disabilities imposed are more sweeping and harsh than wisdom or magnanimity would desire them to be, it must not be forgotten that the provisions of the scheme, of which these are parts, bear an obvious relationship to the one great object of securing and perpetuating divers essential results of the Union victory. The means employed may not be the most discreet imaginable, nor the spirit that employs them the most generous or amiable; but these defects will be forgiven if their effect be to build up the Union anew on a basis of justice and peace. With the Democracy the case is altogether different. What the war has done they seek to undo. The victories of the Union armies they would counteract by a surrender of all that the rebel leaders demand. With guarantees of peace or justice they are ready to dispense, that thereby they may reinvest with the balance of governing power the States but recently in rebellion. To obtain for the Democratic Party the help which alone can save it, they are prepared to clothe with authority as Senators and Representatives the unpunished, untaught, unrepentent promoters of rebellion, that the Federal Government may be transferred from Union to Democratic hands. Divested of surplusage and disguises, this is all that the Democratic policy on this subject amounts to. It is an attempt by pretences of constitutionality to ignore the lessons and upset the results of the war, and to secure for the Democracy a renewed alliance with the disaffected elements of the South.

Intoxicated with late occurrences, our opponents scarcely affect concealment. The last fortnight has changed the tone of many of them considerably. Twelve months ago negro enfranchisement had no more doughty champion than the leading Democratic journal of the Northwest. More recently our neighbor, the World, while bitter in its denunciation of the measures of Congress, was earnest in its recommendation to the South to accept them, and to comply with their requirements, as the sole means of regaining the privileges of the Union. The World then insisted that no available form of resistance could benefit the South as against the power of Congress, and our impression is that it counseled a prompt compliance with the prescribed conditions as preferable to prolonged exclusion. Since the elections in Ohio and Pennsylvania our contemporary has preached widely different doctrine. Instead of advising compliance with the law, it vehemently urges the Southern whites to stand aloof from the work of reconstruction, that they may embarrass and, if possible, defeat it. The hope is held out that by delaying reconstruction, readmission unincumbered by guarantees may be obtained through the successes of the Northern Democracy. One concession, and one only, is recommended, and that relates exclusively to a constitutional provision for insuring an equality of civil rights in the South. With this exception the most rational and the most able of Democratic journals now scouts the notion of reconstruction. It will listen to no talk of terms. It spurns every proposition for securing to the loyalty of the South the direction of Southern affairs. It will be content with nothing less than the unconditional restoration of the South—its colored people disfranchised, its rebel leaders occupying the seats of Senators and Representatives, its theory of State Rights intact and operative, and its machinery of local government worked in the identical interest which precipitated the conflict with national authority. Plainly stated, the design of the Democracy is to destroy the safeguards which the war has given to the Union, and to use whatever advantages may be acquired in the interest of rebeldom.

The saying of Senator YATES is, then, in no respect exaggerated. "The triumph of the Democratic party would be the reopening of every question settled by the war." And, though we are not apprehensive of such a result, though we do not believe that any triumph is probable which would enable the democracy to grasp again the reins of the National Government, the tendency of the party effort is sufficiently marked to reveal the real issue which underlies the contest now in progress. The merits of the struggle in this respect are too well defined to admit of extended misconception. Shall the States which preserved the Union dictate and enforce the conditions on which the excluded are to be reconstructed? Or the States which combined and fought to destroy the Union be restored unconditionally, in order that their rebel leaders may renew their alliance with Northern Democrats, and so regain political influence? As between the Republican and the Democratic parties, all other issues sink into trivial proportions. This issue it is, above all others, which should determine the judgment of this State for or against the Democratic Party.

To talk of peace or harmony as an end to be promoted by the success of Democratic candidates, anywhere, is simply absurd. There can be no real peace save that which recognizes as enduring, the realities achieved by the war; no lasting harmony save that which springs from the reorganization of the South in conformity with the national sense of loyalty and right. To these conditions the principles and policy of the Democratic party are essentially antagonistic. Hence it is the disturbing party; the party whose return to power would unsettle the relations of the States, disturb the commerce and imperil the finances of the country, and revive the battle between the friends and enemies of the Union. Peace can be secured confidently only through the agencies which conquered the rebellion and asserted the supremacy of the national Government. And these must be sought elsewhere than on the tickets or in the counsels of the party called Democratic.

Great Military and Commercial Undertakings.

Sir JOHN MICHEL, the retiring Commander-in-Chief in the British Provinces, has left his friends a testament, which some of them will be apt to appreciate.

He tells the people among whom he has been, that they want more fortifications—and those of a stronger kind, than they have now. He believes that the defences of Montreal, Prescott and Kingston are not what they should be. He leaves it to be inferred that upon these works there should be immediate and heavy outlays. He deems it essential to the security of the Provinces against invasion that there should be a Grand Canal constructed by way of the Ottawa and French River, to Lake Huron, which would give at once a backbone of military strength to the Confederacy, and open up a new highway for commerce of incalculable value to those who should control it. He does not stop to compute how much of the investment in these undertakings should come from British sources as military works, nor does he wait to inquire whether his canal project—commercially regarded—should bring "the vast trade of the vaster West" to the seaboard by way of Albany, or down the St. Lawrence.

In a parting address it was natural enough that the Commander-in-Chief should not trouble himself or his friends with details, but we take it that he left his auditors to infer that the expense of repairing the forts at weak points, and even the cost of constructing the half military and half commercial work around the Falls of the Ottawa and by way of French River should be borne by the Home Government.

It is quite certain that this was the interpretation put upon the General's words by those who listened to his parting address. And it is probable that the speech had its inspiration from a higher source than the headquarters of the Commander of the Forces. The canal which Gen. MICHEL desires to see built will cost probably twenty million dollars. The expenditure of so much money would be a great advantage to the Provinces, and it might very probably be so made as to be an accommodation to our Northwestern trade. We can see no possible objection to the construction of such a work, whether it should prove "a backbone of military strength" to the "Dominion" or not. We want new outlets for our Western Commerce. Gen. MICHEL is indifferent to the consideration whether the traffic to be developed should seek an outlet to the seaboard by way of Albany or by way of Quebec. And inasmuch as the work is not likely to be undertaken in this century, unless it is largely sustained by British subsidies, there is ground for felicitation in the fact that so high an authority as Sir JOHN MICHEL should give it his indorsement.

The erection of new forts, and the extension of old ones, are matters with which we do not care to concern ourselves. There is nothing alarming in any proposition of that sort. We are not inclined to enter into competition in that line of enterprise, because, as long as we have quiet and friendly neighbors, we can have nothing to say as to how they are patronized, or how they govern themselves under the constitutional system they may prefer. It does occur, however, to most well-wishers of the United Provinces, that there is no necessity for making too much military parade. They are not threatened from any quarter, and their strongest defence lies now, and must always lie, in their careful observance of neighborly obligations.

The South and Reconstruction.

Nothing could be more disastrous to the South than the action they seem likely to take in consequence of the result of the Northern elections. There seems to be neither sense nor sanity in their exultations. The organs are appealing on every side to vote against the Convention, and to do nothing whatever toward bringing the Southern States again into Congress, or into the Union.

What do they expect to accomplish by this? Do they expect to get into Congress or the Union in any other way? For two years longer this present Congress will hold possession of power. The Reconstruction Law is not likely to be changed during that time at all events. Nor is there one chance in ten that the South will be able again to deprive the blacks of their right to vote. When a large body of men in any community have once had possession of the ballot, they do not easily surrender it. It has become to them an actual property, and they would as soon surrender their liberty or their life as their right to vote. The blacks of the South can never be deprived of the suffrage without leading to riots, commotion and bloodshed.

Nor will the Southern States, if they are wise, ever attempt to take it away from them. We do not mean to say that the right as it now exists can never be modified; we think it by no means improbable that qualifications, of intelligence or something else, may be affixed to suffrage, both black and white, throughout the South. Giving universal suffrage to the blacks was never a measure commended by good judgment and regard for the public welfare. It was resorted to mainly as a party expedient. It seemed to be necessary, in order to prevent the whole political power of the South from falling back into rebel hands. But every one felt that it was a hazardous step, the result of which was by no means certain. The evils which will unquestionably grow out of universal negro suffrage in the South will compel a revision of the whole suffrage question.

But the whites of the South are only putting this matter more and more out of their reach by the course they are pursuing. By refusing to take any part in the political activity of the States, they simply throw the whole power into the hands of the least intelligent and most unscrupulous portion of the people. If they would take vigorously hold of the various subjects which demand attention,—they might get beaten at the polls at the outset, but they would get a foothold and be in position to do better next time. Political power does not grow by neglect. No party and no class of men ever becomes stronger by doing nothing.

The Southern people seem to have become quite beside themselves in consequence of the quasi Democratic victories. They are very likely to turn to ashes on their lips. Certainly, all that is needed to create another reaction the other way, is for the South to keep up a little longer the boasts and exultations and threats in which they have been so freely indulging for the last three weeks.

MINOR TOPICS.

The Pittsburgh Commercial expresses the hope that Gen. BUTLER will bring forward his measure for paying off the national debt in greenbacks, as soon as Congress meets. The whole country will be glad to have the question settled one way or the other as promptly as possible. So long as it is bandied about among politicians and newspapers, and discussed with more or less earnestness, it will have a disturbing affect upon the public mind. But let it once come to a vote in Congress, and we should soon have an end of it. The sooner this can be done the better.

It is curious to see how the reasoning of political writers—more anxious to establish some particular crotchet of their own than to get at the truth—often comes round in a circle. The Charleston Mercury is very severe on the people of the North for disregarding the Constitution. "There can be no stability in the Government of any country," it says, "with every citizen possessing the right to resist its laws whenever they deem it expedient to do so." That is precisely what we insisted on during the rebellion. The great object of the war was to prevent "resistance to the law," and to establish the Constitution as the supreme law of the land. The work, moreover, was pretty thoroughly done.

In a little pamphlet on labor and laborers, by L. SIMONIN, called Les Cités Ouvrières de Mineurs, not yet translated, we believe, there is a rather flattering picture drawn of the condition of laborers in America. "The workman relies solely upon himself in that country, and not only I, but all who have ever gone there, tell you that there is no unfortunate man there, no beggar." This is rather a strong statement; and though the author thinks DE TOCQUEVILLE and MICHEL CHEVALIER support him by their observations, we fear it is somewhat imaginative. Again, here is the way the American laborer works: "At work, he is calm, he is dignified, he neither sings nor smokes. The most that he does is (from the effect of an old custom, common to all Americans, great and small,) to silently chew tobacco." This is a fine picture, but what follows is finer. "His task done, he puts on his coat and his black hat, and is equal to his employer." We do not wonder, when such a picture is presented to Professor SIMONIN, of the Polytechnic Association, that he covets it for French workmen also.

A Washington correspondent of the Albany Argus declares that Gen. GRANT ought not to be nominated for the Presidency because "his political sentiments are equivocal." This is a very important piece of intelligence, and coming from the quarter it does, cannot fail to have a very decided effect on the political action of the country, and especially of the Republican Party. During the war, if we remember aright, Gen. GRANT's political sentiments were not deemed very "equivocal," even by the Democrats; and there has been a general impression since that time, that he was pretty distinctly and decisively understood to be opposed to the rebel interest and in favor of equal rights. Possibly the General's position may grow clearer by and by, so that even the exacting critic of the Argus may be satisfied. Let us hope so for his own sake.

An article in one of the November magazines, upon "Our Doctors in the Rebellion," cites a circular from the Surgeon-General's Office, in which it is said that only 105 sabre wounds and 143 bayonet wounds were reported from the field during the first three years of the war. If this be so, one is inclined to read with some suspicion the dreadful hackings with sabre and proddings with bayonet spoken of in various reports and histories of actions. HARRY GILMOR's book alone would give the idea that his single command sabred more than 105 men in a single campaign. EARLY talks, also, of "using the sabre." Whereas, in SHERIDAN's famous Shenandoah campaign, our men received only 25 sabre wounds in all, so far as reported. The same holds good of the reports of such Generals as D. H. HILL as to the number of "bayonet charges" of the Confederate forces. On the other hand, it must be owned that our forces probably did just about as much actual work with the bayonet and sabre as the enemy. But for both it should be said that genuine sabre charges and bayonet charges are perfectly possible without a drop of blood being drawn by either weapon. That is to say, the troops, advancing without firing, may storm the enemy's works or break his line, and put him to flight, and yet not actually come upon him, except to take prisoners the hindmost of his flying forces. Accordingly, there is nothing to be ashamed of in the scanty records of sabre and bayonet wounds.

One of our exchanges says that Mr. SEWARD, "in his leisure moments at Auburn, has expressed the conviction" that the Democrats will carry the State this Fall. We are glad he did not encroach on any of his laborious and absorbing occupations in order to express this conviction. It was a thing to be done at leisure, if done at all. He is also said to have devoted a portion of the same leisure to remarking that he "should not resign."

The Fenians are reported to be threatening to break out again. Somebody has heard that somebody else has seen some pistols, or something of the sort, hidden somewhere near the Canadian frontier. As a matter of course, special dispatches are very abundant, and the Canadian Government is thoroughly prepared—for anything or nothing. Would it not be well to let the other side of the water monopolize this tomfoolery a little while? We can take our turn again later in the season,—when an invading army can cross on the ice, and when there will, therefore, be a little better chance of making somebody believe these stories.

The Albany Evening Journal is growing facetious. It says that WILLIAMS, the notorious member of the Legislature, denies in toto that his votes on public questions have "ever been influenced by improper motives!" And the Journal says this puts the burden of proof on those newspapers which have aspersed this immaculate gentleman's character. Our virtuous contemporary evidently did not think Mr. WILLIAMS would deny it, or put in any protest against the sweeping condemnation which is passed upon him. What does Mr. WILLIAMS consider "improper motives?" Perhaps the Journal can ascertain his views on this point, which seems to be one of some importance. Possibly, moreover, a man who seeks and holds a seat in the Legislature for the purpose of making money out of it, would not hesitate to deny that he was doing anything of the kind, if he were sorely pressed. Some people are so very fastidious—while others are not!

We see a statement to the effect that the Common Council has directed the removal of the bulletin boards and other incumbrances from the Public Parks. There cannot, of course, be any serious intention of carrying into effect so sensible a resolution as this; but the bare mention of the subject excites unwonted and strange sensations. While the authorities are talking of such things, would it disturb them too much to call attention to the booths, apple-stands, soda-fountains, and miscellaneous shops of all kinds that occupy fully one-third of the sidewalks round the City Hall Park? If there is too much sidewalk, pray let us have it for the street, which is dreadfully crowded. If there is not too much, we are entitled to enjoy what there is. But probably the Common Council will forget all about the subject before they read this paragraph.

We are in receipt of quite a number of communications concerning Mrs. LINCOLN's recent proceedings for the sale of her wardrobe. We decline to publish them. The matter has very little public interest or importance, and what little it has is by no means agreeable. We published the other day a copy of the inventory of Mrs. LINCOLN's estate, from which it is very easy to infer pretty accurately whether Mrs. L. is, or is not, in a destitute condition. We see no reason why anybody, who wants such articles of dress as Mrs. L. offers for sale, should not buy them; nor do we see any reason why anybody who does not want them, should buy them at all. But if Mrs. L.'s agents can get up an excitement about them, and so help their sale,—so much the better for them.

MASSACHUSETTS.

A Woman Burned to Death in Boston.

BOSTON, Friday, Oct. 18.

Mrs. CAROLINE WARE, housekeeper in a family residing at No. 106 Boylston-street, last evening was burned to death, and a German girl named WATTS, employed in the same house, was also fearfully burned, and it is feared her injuries will prove fatal. The catastrophe occurred from the ignition of a can of benzine, with which the two women were cleaning furniture.

BOSTON, Friday, Oct. 18.

Miss WALTER, the young lady who was burned last night by the explosion of benzine, died to-day.

VERMONT.

Blasting Accident at Fair Haven—Seven Men Injured.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Friday, Oct. 18.

Last evening seven men were injured, and three of them probably fatally, by the premature explosion of a blast in the slate quarries of J. J. WILLIAMS, at Fair Haven, Vt. Two kegs of gunpowder were being poured into a crevice, which probably contained fire from a previous blast.

WASHINGTON.

AFFAIRS AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 18.

THE BALTIMORE RIOT.

The so-called riot in Baltimore last night amounted to nothing more than the accidental killing of a young man who, though innocent of creating any disturbance, was unfortunately mixed up in a crowd of rebel rowdies who were engaged in the congenial occupation of stoning a colored militia organization which was parading through Howard-street. The colored men were exasperated by the hootings of the rowdies, but remained quiet until the latter commenced throwing stones at them, when a few men in the rear of the column turned and fired their muskets at their assailants, with the fatal result above mentioned. A rebel jury was summoned by a Coroner, which, before the body of the deceased was cold, rendered a verdict to the effect that he was murdered without provocation by the Lincoln Guard. The testimony taken by the jury did not include any statement from an eye-witness. Several witnesses testified that the troops were stoned, and two Policemen swore that the deceased was standing quietly at the corner of Mulberry-street, and had not participated in the attack which led to the fatal volley. A full investigation of the affair will undoubtedly develop the fact that the colored men merely acted in self-defence.

THE METROPOLITAN REVENUE BOARD.

The whisky ring in New-York are sending here for information as to the antecedents of Deputy Commissioner PARNELL, who has just been assigned to the Metropolitan Revenue Board. It is supposed, of course, that they desire to sound his integrity. For their information, it ought to be known that Mr. PARNELL's antecedents are of the best character and his integrity above suspicion. If they don't believe it, let them give him a trial. Commissioner ROLLINS, of the Internal Revenue Bureau, left for New-York to-night to look after affairs there personally for a day or two.

IMPEACHMENT.

A statement has recently been telegraphed from here in such a manner as to lead to the belief that the Judiciary Committee had finally agreed to report in favor of impeachment. The fact is that the Committee have had no meeting since the last day of the last session, and will not meet again until the 13th of November. As a matter of course, there have been no further votes taken, and so far as the expressed sense of the Committee is concerned, they stand just as they did three months ago. The report that a majority now favor impeachment arises from the supposed changes of opinion on the part of one or more of the Republican members who have heretofore opposed it. But there is no foundation for such belief beyond the inferences to be drawn of the effect of the President's late action upon the minds and views of such members.

THE MARYLAND INVESTIGATION.

The Sub Judiciary Committee to-day decided to enforce the rule of secrecy regarding the Maryland investigation, on the ground that a revelation of the proceedings not only embarrassed the Committee, but subjected the witnesses who testified to unjust criticism from the people among whom they reside. Hence no outsider is supposed to know what the Committee did to-day.

THE COMMITTEE ON RETRENCHMENT.

The Sub-Joint Committee on Retrenchment, composed of Senators EDMONDS, of Vermont, Chairman; BUCKALEW, of Pennsylvania, and Representative HALSEY, of New-Jersey, are now at work in the Treasury Department, the session having commenced yesterday. Messrs. EDMONDS and HALSEY only were present yesterday; but Mr. BUCKALEW will arrive this evening and the investigation proceed. The Committee is now engaged in examining into the affairs of the printing division, of which Mr. S. M. CLARKE is Superintendent. They will make an examination of all plates, notes, numbers, seals, &c., and make a careful comparison of the counterfeit notes with the genuine in order to ascertain if the impressions were made from the original plates in the Department. They will also examine into the affairs of all the other bureaus of the Department, with a view to see where the expenses may be curtailed. They will inquire as to the amount of currency and bonds of all kinds issued, make a careful examination of the books of every bureau, and also ascertain if some of the force can be dispensed with, in order to lessen the expenses. They will be in session daily in their room at the Department until the investigation is completed, and they expect to make a full report by the opening of the session of Congress.

DELEGATE TO NEW-MEXICO.

J. FRANCISCO CHAVES, of New-Mexico, has arrived here, and is preparing to contest the seat of C. P. CLEAVER, Democratic delegate-elect from that Territory, who received the certificate of election on a majority of 94 votes. Col. CHAVES was the delegate in the Thirty-ninth Congress, and claims that CLEAVER's election was obtained through fraud, in transferring lists of registration from one county to another.

POST-OFFICE AGENTS APPOINTED.

Postmaster-General RANDALL yesterday appointed CHAS. H. GOWEN as Special Agent of the Post-office Department for the State of Mississippi, and JAMES WHITE Special Agent for the State of Tennessee, vice J. W. FRAZER.

PERSONAL.

The resignation of Maj.-Gen. PLEASONTON has been accepted, to take effect Jan. 1, 1868.

The resignation of Gen. KILPATRICK has been accepted, to take effect Oct. 15, 1867.

Major and Brevet Lieut.-Col. CHAMBLISS, Fourth United States Cavalry, has tendered his resignation.

Lieut.-Col. ISAAC S. STEWART, late additional Paymaster United States Volunteers, was to-day appointed Paymaster United States Army on recommendation of Gen. GRANT, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Paymaster A. D. STUART.

Chief-Justice CARTTER, of the District Supreme Court, has returned to the city after an absence of several months in Ohio, much improved in health.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 18.

THE SEVEN-THIRTY COUNTERFEIT BONDS.

The Secretary of the Treasury will immediately make a demand for reclamation on the persons from whom about $30,000 worth of alleged counterfeit Seven-thirty notes were received at the Department, which claims that in the course of business the understanding is that until notes, &c., are finally and satisfactorily examined here they are at the risk of those presenting them. Should these parties refuse to make satisfaction, the Treasury will take the advice of some law officer of the Government, perhaps the Attorney-General, and be governed by his opinion.

Col. WOOD, Chief of the Secret Service Division of the Treasury Department, has had all his force at work since the discovery of the counterfeit Seven-thirty notes. It has now been definitely ascertained that over one thousand of them have been put upon the market, and that the plates were not made in Europe, but in this country. It is further stated that Philadelphia has been the headquarters for printing them. The clue to the whole proceeding is said to be in possession of the Secret Service officers. According to representations, one of the gang of counterfeiters has been so successful with his Seven-thirties that he forgot his discretion, and commenced putting into circulation counterfeit ten and twenty dollar bank notes, and upon this latter charge was captured, when he proved to be one of the very men of whom Col. WOOD and his assistants were in pursuit. He was identified as having passed a number of Seven-thirties on a Brooklyn banker. His name is COOPER, and he is known as one of the gang, and is now in prison in New-York awaiting the action of Solicitor JORDON and Col. WOOD, who are both in New-York at this time.

AFFAIRS IN CRETE.

Official accounts from Crete, dated Sept. 26, announce the resumption of hostilities against the Turks by order of the Provisional Government of that island, which has scornfully rejected the idea of returning to Turkish allegiance, the promises of the Sultan's proclamation being regarded as illusory, and is denounced, alike by the Grecians and Mohammedans of Crete, as a snare and a mockery. After a heroic struggle of fourteen months, and the endurance of intense suffering and persecutions, they consider the attempt of the Turkish Government to thwart the emancipation of Crete as absurd and ridiculous.

The accounts from Athens report the prorogation of the Chambers till the 15th of November, at which period the King is expected to arrive at the Grecian capital, accompanied by his Queen, the Prussian Grand Duchess OLGA.

The palace at Athens is being put in order for the reception of the royal family, and many workmen and artists are employed embellishing that part of the palace where the Queen and her brilliant suite are to reside.

The arrival of their Majesties will be attended with popular demonstrations.

REVENUE COLLECTOR IN TEXAS.

SILAS D. WOOD, Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fourth District of Texas, has been directed to perform the duties of the office of Collector until the arrival of L. D. EVANS, who has been appointed Collector in place of BONFREY, deceased.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS.

The receipts from customs from the 7th to the 12th of October at the ports named below have been as follows: Boston, $402,942 98; New-York, $2,111,000; Philadelphia, $238,214 68; Baltimore, $186,848 65; total, $2,938,006 31.

NATIONAL BANKS.

The following letter was made public to-day:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY,
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18, 1867.

DEAR SIR: Your letter of the 15th inst. is received, inquiring what portion of the three per cent. certificates is available as a reserve for the National Banks. The act of March 2, 1867, authorizing the issue of three per cent. certificates and their use as a part of the reserve of National Banks, also provides that not less than two-fifths of the entire reserve of such bank shall consist of lawful money of the United States. The country banks are required to have a reserve of fifteen per cent. of circulation and deposits, two-fifths of which must be in lawful money and three per cent. certificates, or in cash deposits with the redemption agent selected by the Bank. The banks of Boston and of the other cities designated in section thirty-one of the National Currency Act, are required to have a reserve of twenty-five per cent. of their circulation and deposits, two-fifths of which must be in lawful money, and three-fifths of which may be in these certificates, or, if preferred, one-half of this reserve may be in cash deposits with the Redemption Agent in New-York, two-fifths in lawful money, and the remaining one-tenth in the three per cent. certificates.

I am, very respectfully,

JNO. JAY KNOX,
Deputy and Acting Comptroller.

CHARLES G. NAZRO, President North National Bank, Boston.

VIRGINIA.

Gen. Schofield's View of Reconstruction.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

RICHMOND, Thursday, Oct. 17, 1867.

Gen. SCHOFIELD has returned from Washington. He says that there will be no changes made in the Cabinet for some time, if at all. The President has no present intentions in that direction, nor will there be any alteration in the manner of Southern reconstruction. The General is anxious that the Convention should be called, and regrets that so many of the white people are disposed to oppose it. He says they will be mistaken if they think their Northern friends will sustain them in such a course. If they vote down a Convention, or vote against it, the people of the North can very justly say: "Why, these people are unwilling even to give Congress and the Republicans a chance to show what they will do. They will not even let them make an effort to reconstruct their Governments. Why did they not let them hold their Convention, and then if the Constitution did not suit they would still have it in their power to vote it down. But they will listen to nothing. They will not help themselves, and why should we help them?" "They mistake the real significance of these Northern elections," said the General. "The people of Ohio are not voting against suffrage in the South. They are only declaring by their votes that Congress has no right to impose it upon them. They were never in rebellion—never lost any of their State rights. But with the Southern States the case is quite different. All their rights were forfeited, and Congress has full power to dictate terms to them." This was about what the General said, and he added further, with a smile. "If they want to defeat the Convention the best way for them to do it is not to vote at all. But even this would not defeat it, for the Republicans, black and white, are many thousands in the majority in the State, and therefore the Convention is a fixed fact. It is also certain that the Constitution that will be framed by it will be adopted by the people and approved by Congress, and Virginia, before the 4th of March, will be in the Union, 'rejoicing' with her younger sister, Tennessee."

The Case of Gen. Imboden—The Board of Registers Sustained.

RICHMOND, Va., Friday, Oct. 18.

With a view to making Gen. SCHOFIELD defendant of mandamus, and to exhaust the remedies under the Reconstruction Act, Gen. IMBODEN, under the advice of counsel, appealed from the decision of the Registration Board. The following is the Commanding General's reply:

M. J. IMBODEN—Sir: In reply to your communication, submitted to-day, appealing from the decision of the Board of Registration, of Richmond City, in rejecting you as a qualified voter, I am directed by the Commanding General to inform you that the decision of the Board of Registration is sustained.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
S. F. CHALFIN, Asst. Adj't-Gen.

The Conservatives here are full of hope; never has there been more energy shown in a canvass than is now being displayed by both sides. Each is sanguine of victory, and both are doing their best. The moderate negroes are dissatisfied with the Democratic nominations. They say if STURDIVANT and EVANS were dropped, and two negroes substituted, the ticket would carry, and a torchlight procession would crown the triumph; but, as it is, they will vote for Hunnicutt's Party.

There is a grand Hunnicutt meeting being held in the square now, and being addressed by him.

The Conservatives are holding a meeting and are confident.

The Congressional Railroad Committee are at work, and have had several railroad officers before them to-day.

Gen. WASHBURNE, of the Congressional Committee, addressed a meeting of Radicals on Capitol-square to-night, speaking for more than an hour, giving advice to the negroes and relating anecdotes.

The President's View of the Elections.

From the Charleston Courier.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, Oct. 12, 1867.

The President and his Cabinet, including Gen. GRANT, fully understand and appreciate the meaning of the late elections. They view the result as the want of the great conservative interests of the country, which demand peace, stability and justice under a Constitutional Union. The elections were gained by Conservative men, and not by the Democrats, as a distinct party. These elections are only a prelude to a general uprising of Conservative young men throughout the North and West, the results of which we shall see in the November elections, and more decidedly still in the election for Congress and for the Presidency in November of next year.

The fact is, the country is in the hands of a generation of young men who have sprung up within the last six or seven years, and the first thing they will do is to brush off the old and effete and prejudiced leaders of the Radical party everywhere. The old Democratic chiefs of the Buchanan school will fare no better with them. They are not going back to past times or to old dogmas, but will take things as they find them in this their own generation. The President has expressed views of the situation in a manner showing that he comprehends it. It is not his triumph, though he has contributed to it. He says, however, that it puts an end to the impeachment project, and will give him an opportunity, peacefully and with less obstruction than was expected, to sustain the Executive Department with its constitutional rights, in opposition to the factious and despotic action of Congress.

The Conservative Republicans, and especially the old Clay and Webster Whigs, are gratified by the result, and will evidently support the onward movement. Many held back from the polls at the late elections because they would not act with their old opponents, the Democrats. They will have no scruple hereafter on that move.

The President will not, in readjusting his Cabinet, compose it of Democratic partisans. He will take Conservative men. He has stated this in unmistakable terms. At the same time he will seek men of nerve and boldness, as well as integrity and ability. He ought to take men representing the present situation, and probably he will do it

SOUTH AMERICA.

Arrival of American Emigrants at Montevideo—Insurrection in the Argentine Republic—The War in Paraguay.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Montevideo, Thursday, Aug. 29, 1867.

The Provincial Government is forming a plan for the colonization of public waste lands west of Buenos Ayres.

A treaty in regard to naturalization is about to be formed by the Government of Uruguay with Spain, by virtue of which those Spanish subjects who have resided for ten years in the Republic without returning to their home, are entitled to the citizenship, and Spain will have no more claim on them.

A public dinner has lately taken place in honor of Mexico, and speeches were delivered for the cause of republicanism. The pictures of Washington, Lincoln, Mazzini, Juarez and Garibaldi occupied prominent places among the decorations of the premises where the festival was held.

The construction of a railroad has been authorized by the Emperor of Brazil, and the plan will at once be carried out. The road will have its terminus in the City of Rio Grande do Sul, and is expected to reach the coal regions of Candista, in the Province of San Pedro.

The steamship North American, from New-York, has landed 148 emigrants in Montevideo, and 500 more are expected from Mobile. They are said to be a very active class of men, and are at once going to work to cultivate the ground.

The American steamship Brooklyn arrived in Bahia on the 8th inst., on her way to the United States. The new monitor Rio Grande was launched at Rio Janeiro on the 17th inst. The Spanish iron-clad frigate Numancia left Rio Janeiro on the 15th, for Europe, to be repaired.

The most important topics of interest are the revolts which take place in the interior of the Argentine Republic, the question about capital punishment debated in the legislative body, and the siege of Humaita. The Province of Cordova has risen in insurrection against the Government; several public officials, and even the Minister of War, who had been sent by the Central Government, were imprisoned, and several battalions of the National Guard have left for the scene of disturbance to restore order. Several other Provinces are expected to rise, unless the war is speedily terminated, and Gen. Urquiza, the enemy of the alliance with Brazil, is said to incite the people to revolt.

The allied forces are besieging and bombarding the fortress of Humaita, where Lopez, the Dictator of Paraguay, keeps himself at present, after having been routed out of all his strong positions, and it is expected that he must soon capitulate. Thus the war is actually drawing to a close.

The latest news from the seat of war is to the effect that an engagement has taken place between a train of the Allied troops and a detachment of the enemy. The Paraguayans had 150 men killed and a great many wounded; an officer and about 20 soldiers had been taken prisoners. The passage of Curupaity has been forced; the squadron has effected the passage without being affected by the numerous torpedoes. At 11 o'clock in the morning the squadron arrived at the Fort of Humaita, and opened fire at 2 P. M., the strongest battery of the fort answering the fire. The squadron of Humaita keeps its communication open with Curupaity by means of an improvised road.

At the time of the departure of the mail-boat news reach us to the effect that the bombardment of Humaita continues so that the steamboat Tamandare, which had her machinery damaged, is repaired and ready again for action.

The shipping news of the port of Montevideo are of a cheerful character, and trade on the increase; out of the 671 vessels which arrived during the first quarter of 1867, 435 have unloaded their cargo at that place. The number of vessels arrived in the ports of the Argentine Republic, Paraguay and the Oriental Republic is 1,618, carrying 340,675 tons. The number of passengers arrived from Europe during the same period amounts to 12,667.

Business in general has been rather animated. Hides for export to the United States and France have been much in demand. Wool is only salable in fine qualities and at reduced prices.

HAYTI.

Dispersion of Brigands—The Government Finances—Commercial Facilities—The Burial of Soulouque.

Advices from Port-au-Prince to the 28th September have been received here.

The insurgents in the North, known as Cacos, had been completely dispersed by the Government troops. On the 10th September, Fort Biasson, in which they had entrenched themselves, was taken by assault. Those who escaped fled into the Dominican territory, but the Dominican Government, in accordance with the treaty just concluded with Hayti, caused their arrest. President Salnave issued a proclamation announcing the dispersion of the Cacos, and congratulating the country that peace reigned throughout the whole Republic.

The finances of the country were assuming a healthy aspect. A payment had been made to the French Chargé d'Affaires of the sum of 495,000 francs, toward the liquidation of the national debt to France. All the engagements of the Government had been met by the ordinary receipts of the treasury. Gold had fallen considerably. Exchange was twenty-eight Haytien dollars to one Spanish dollar. Business prospects were improving. The coffee crop, which is very large this year, was finding its way to market, and there were free deliveries. Owing to numerous arrivals, foreign merchandise of all kinds was declining in price.

A debate had taken place in the National Assembly on a petition of the relatives of the late Ex-Emperor Soulouque, asking permission to inter his remains within the walls of the church at Petit Goave, his native place, where he died. The prayer of the petition was opposed on the ground that Soulouque had overthrown the Constitution which he swore to uphold, and had established a despotism. The petition was rejected by a large majority.

The official organ of the Government has published the text of a circular issued by the Government to the Haytien Legations at Washington, Paris, Madrid and London. The circular says that the present Government will use its best endeavors to strengthen and make profitable the important commercial relations existing between Hayti and England, France, Northern Germany and the United States.

The Government was assiduously engaged in arranging plans for the establishment of a system of national education on a liberal basis. The plans contemplated the establishment of a Haytien University at Port-au-Prince on the same footing as the colleges of France. Primary schools are to be established forthwith in all the communes, and schools of industry in several parts of the Republic.

President Salnave's health was completely restored and he had taken a pleasure trip to Leogane.

SAN DOMINGO.

Ratification of the Treaty With the United States.

Advices from the capital to the 21st ult. have been received.

Within two days from that date a Dominican Plenipotentiary was to leave for Hayti, to exchange the ratifications of the treaty lately concluded between Hayti and Saint Domingo.

President Cabral had ratified the treaty with the United States, and the exchange would shortly be made, Mr. Somers Smith being at the capital of Saint Domingo with the necessary authority to effect it.

MEXICO.

Result of the Election for President Still Unknown—Arrival of Mr. Plumb—Reception of the Bolivian Minister—By the Cuban Cable.

Havana, Friday, Oct. 18.

By the arrival of the steamer Louisiana from Vera Cruz we have advices from the City of Mexico to the 13th and Vera Cruz to the 14th inst.

Juarez had received a majority of votes for President in the City of Mexico, but the proposition for an amendment to the Constitution was defeated.

The general result of the Presidential election is not yet known.

Quierrogo, the companion of Marquez, in his flight had been discovered on the Texan frontier by a party of soldiers, but had succeeded in again escaping from his followers.

The roads in Mexico are infested by banditti, and are very unsafe for travelers.

Mr. Plumb, the Secretary of Legation of the United States had arrived at the City of Mexico.

The Bolivian Minister had been received by President Juarez, who congratulated him on the great triumph of the Mexican arms.

By the steamer Louisiana the following distinguished persons, who have been banished from Mexico, have arrived here on the way to Europe. The widow of Miramon and her family; the Imperial Ministers—Marine, Theophilo; Interior, Juan Pereda; Foreign Affairs, Nicolas Portilla; Gen. Roa, Counselor Escudero and the Bishops of Ormacoches and Tulancingo.

Killing of a Desperado in Tennessee.

From the Nashville Union & Dispatch, Oct. 16.

A private letter informs us that a noted desperado, by the name of Bill Sherrone, was killed in Rogersville on the 11th inst., where he has been living since the war. His career of crime has been an extraordinary one. At the breaking out of the rebellion he joined the Confederate army, but soon threw off all discipline and became a sort of independent scout, harassing the Union people terribly, and he is reported to have killed seventeen Union men during the forays made into the northern portion of upper East Tennessee. Seeing that the Federals were gaining possession of East Tennessee, and that they would soon control the whole of that section, he deserted and joined the Federal army. Here again he managed to give his bad passions full sway in the capacity of a bushwhacker. His persecution of Southern sympathizers was more relentless and inhuman than of the Union men, and he is said to have murdered twenty of them in cold blood. During the last two months he shot down two men in the streets of Rogersville. The last one of these was a Federal soldier by the name of Webster, whose only offence was that he had declared himself a Conservative. He was arrested for the last murder and bound over to the Circuit Court for trial, some Radicals bailing him to keep him out of jail. On the 11th inst. a Union soldier shot him dead within ten steps of where he had killed poor Webster only a few weeks ago. No attempt was made to arrest Willis, for every one felt that he had performed a praiseworthy act in ridding the country of the desperado. Sherrone's body lay in the street nearly an hour before any one would go to the assistance of his wife to take it to his late home. This man Sherrone was a terror to the people of Hawkins County, and it will be difficult to get a jury in that county who will convict his slayer of murder.

Mr. Bonner in Reply to Commodore Vanderbilt.

Ledger Office, No. 90 Beekman-street, New-York, Oct. 18, 1867.

My Dear Commodore: The good-natured contest between you and myself for the ownership of the fastest trotting horse in the world is attracting increased attention, on account of the recent performances of Mountain Boy, and your published letters concerning him. I have observed the challenge by your trainer, which I rather expected to see you disavow, as you know I never enter any of my horses in a public race. That certainly is not necessary to test the relative speed of horses. No one can concede more cheerfully than I do the merits of your admirable horse. His best performance, reckoning as his the 2:24 in which he was beaten by both Thorn and Lucy, was only 6¾ seconds—or at Dexter's rate of going, between 70 and 80 yards—behind Dexter. Whenever your horse shall have closed up this gap, and have equaled Dexter's time—2:17¼—and he needs nothing but increased speed and bottom to do this, it will be soon enough for me to further respond to your publications. Until then, my dear Commodore, I shall remain—and I think the happy relation promises to continue a good while—as ever,

Sincerely yours, ROBERT BONNER.

Atwood.—In New-Haven, on Thursday, Oct. 17, Frank Atwood, of Hunt's Corners, N. Y., a member of the Junior Class in Yale College, aged 19 years.

At a meeting of the Junior Class of Yale College, held Oct. 17, 1867, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That whereas the Almighty has seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved classmate Frank Atwood, we mourn him not only as one whose genial sociability had made him very dear to his immediate friends, but whose rare gifts of mind gave sure promise that had he been spared, he would have done honor to his college and his class; and

Resolved, That though our regrets avail not to bring him back, we do cherish his memory as all of him that is left us on earth; and

Resolved, That in testimony of our grief, a Committee of ten be appointed to conduct the remains home and be present at the funeral; and furthermore, that the class wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved parents and relatives.

A JOY FOR EVER!

Who will have it? Beauty secured by Radway's Renovating Resolvent, containing Sarsaparillian—the crystalline principle wherein reside all the virtues of Sarsaparilla. One bottle of Resolvent contains more of the curative principles of Sarsaparilla than ten of the large bottles.

One to six bottles of this wonderful purifier of the blood will change the most repulsive body, covered with the worst Sores, Ulcers and other infirmities, to a sound and healthy condition. It makes pure blood; it secures clear Skin, Sound and White Teeth, clean and regular Nails, strong and luxuriant Hair, bright and clear Eyes, sweet and pure breath—those who use it, however unfortunate they may be in personal appearance, will soon realize its wonderful power, imparting health and beauty to all. Price $1 per bottle, or $5 for six bottles. Sold by druggists, and by RADWAY & CO., No. 87 Maiden-lane.

See Dr. Radway's Almanac for 1868.

Illustrated with Eight Original Designs.

"This volume is a continuation of the account of the German side of Napoleon's campaign in Germany. Many facts which the histories of the time do not reveal are here set forth, clothed in language which renders the reading of them as entertaining as the romances of Sir Walter Scott. We have her own assertion, which is amply verified by references to the chronicles of the time, that the account is truthful."

17TH
THOUSAND OF KATHRINA.
TIMOTHY TITCOMB'S
NEW BOOK.
NOW IN PRESS.

KATHRINA: Her Life and Mine; in a Poem. By J. G. Holland, author of "Bitter Sweet." One vol., 12mo, about 300 pages. Price $1 50; full gilt, $2 50.

The unprecedentedly rapid sale of and steadily increasing demand for Dr. Holland's new Poem, Kathrina, has already stamped it as the most popular production of this favorite author. Although it has been published less than one month, THE SEVENTEENTH THOUSAND is now in press.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

Its theme is grander than earthly landscapes or the external fortunes of an adventurer. It incites to reflection; it points to the wisdom of the Great Teacher. It leaves the impression of a truth in harmony with the most profound Christian experience, that no selfish gratification, no earthly love and no worldly success can satisfy the longings of the immortal soul. Here poetry rises to its noblest sphere, and the best commendation of the poet is that his work appeals to a far higher standard than mere literary taste, and that it does not appeal in vain.

We commend it to be read entire, and if it affects the reader as it did us, he will be absorbed in it. It is beautiful—it has true wisdom in it, and, what cannot be said of many modern poems, it is of high moral and religious tendencies. We know of nothing more touching and elevating than the death scene of the poet's wife, with which the poem closes.—Presbyterian, Philadelphia.

A GREAT PUBLIC CHARACTER.
THE LIFE OF JOSHUA QUINCY.

By his son Edmund Quincy. 1 vol. Large 12mo. Uniform with Parton's Works. With two Portraits engraved on steel. $3.

This volume has met a most cordial welcome for the excellence of the character and the instructive lessons of the life it commemorates, and for the charming manner in which the memorable story is told.

"Mr. Edmund Quincy may well challenge the gratitude of the public for the deeply interesting volume with which he has enriched our biographical literature. It will at once find a place among the standard biographies which form such a large and enticing portion of our best literature."—New-York Tribune.

"The subject is worthy, the materials rich and abundant, the work is well done. Such biographies are public blessings. They are more readable than formal history, and they give our young men the real juice of the past."—Springfield Republican.

"Such a memoir as this is as seasonable as it is intrinsically valuable; it enforces a great lesson, it appeals to the highest motives, it celebrates the most efficient and noble precedents in political, municipal, domestic and social life."—Boston Transcript.

"The memory of such men should be cherished as the most precious inheritance which one generation can bequeath to the next."—James Russell Lowell, in Atlantic Monthly.

"We commend this volume cordially to all who are students of the political history of their country; all who honor sturdy championship of right principles; and all who revere the fame which comes to a community from the membership of illustrious men."—Boston Commonwealth.

This Company, in its Life Insurance Department, is prepared to issue Policies of every description affecting Life Insurance, and would call especial attention to the various attractive features presented in its prospectus, which can be had at the office of the Company, and of all its agents.

An entirely new and original table called the IMMEDIATE INSURANCE AND DEFERRED ANNUITY, to provide insurance until a certain age, when the payment of premiums ceases, and the assured is granted an annuity for the remainder of his life.

TONTINE DEPARTMENT.

The object of this department is to extend the assurance principle in a new direction in this country, by introducing a system of TONTINES, similar to those so popular and extensively practiced at the present time in Europe.

This Company will receive subscriptions to a TONTINE FUND, either for life or for a term of years, not less than ten nor more than twenty.

Subscriptions to this fund may be made for annual income, increasing with every year of life, and reaching as high in the later years of life as 20 or 25 per cent. per annum. Or for accumulation of interest, or lapses, or both, to be paid the subscriber at the end of his term, in case of survival.

Subscriptions may be made at any age, and for any sum over $20, by a party for his own benefit, or for the benefit of another, as by a husband for his wife, or parent for his child, &c., &c., without medical examination.

Other plans will from time to time be offered to the public.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14, 1867.

ON THE PETITION OF CHARLES R. HARVEY, of New-York, N. Y., praying for the extension of a patent granted to him the 24th day of January, 1854, for an improvement in Air-Heating Furnaces, for seven years from the expiration of said patent, which takes place on the 24th day of January, 1868.

It is ordered that the said petition be heard at the Patent Office on MONDAY, the 6th day of January next, at 12 o'clock M.; and all persons are notified to appear and show cause, if any they have, why said petition ought not to be granted.

Persons opposing the extension are required to file in the Patent Office their objections, specially set forth in writing, at least twenty days before the day of hearing; all testimony filed by either party, to be used at the said hearing, must be taken and transmitted in accordance with the rules of the office, which will be furnished on application.

Depositions and other papers, relied upon as testimony, must be filed in the office twenty days before the day of hearing; the arguments, if any, within ten days after filing the testimony.

Ordered, also, that this notice be published in the Republican and Intelligencer, Washington, D. C., and in the TIMES, New-York, N. Y., once a week for three successive weeks; the first of said publications to be at least sixty days previous to the day of hearing.

MLLE. GIUSEPPINA MORLACCHI.

BANVARD'S OPERA HOUSE, Oct. 18, 1867.

The Management have the honor to announce to the public of New-York the arrival and approaching debut of MLLE. GIUSEPPINA MORLACCHI, the acknowledged greatest Terpsichorean artiste of the day.

In the announcement of this event Mr. De Pol claims to have inaugurated a new era for the American stage. Determined on taking the reins of management to present to the public a spectacle of terpsichorean excellence never yet seen on this continent, Mr. De Pol feels already, by the unprecedented and continued success, that his efforts in presenting in THE DEVIL'S AUCTION, OR THE GOLDEN BRANCH, the greatest number of star dancers ever together on one stage, either here or in Europe, that he has fulfilled his promises to the public. Not willing, however, to rest on laurels so quickly and easily gained, he will have the honor, on WEDNESDAY EVENING, OCT. 23, 1867,

to present, for the first time in America,
Mlle. GIUSEPPINA MORLACCHI.

In alluding to the debut of this great artiste, the Management feel that there will at once and entirely be dismissed from the mind of the public the rumors that an artiste of so great a reputation as Mlle. Morlacchi would never come to this country, and her reputation and artistic merit being already acknowledged. Notwithstanding the immense additional outlay the engagement of Mlle. Morlacchi has occasioned, prices will remain as usual.

LOCAL POLITICS.

Union Republican County Convention.

The Union Republican County Convention was held at the rooms corner of Twenty-second-street and Broadway, last evening, Judge JAMES W. CULVER in the chair.

A vote having been taken for Supervisor, the choice fell on ISAAC J. OLIVER, who received 80 votes. His competitor, WILLIAM H. MCKINNEY, received 66 votes.

For Supervisor, to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Gen. SHALER, the choice fell on WM. B. ALEXANDER, who received 116 votes.

For District-Attorney, Col. RUSH C. HAWKINS was nominated by acclamation.

For the three Coroners, Drs. ALEXANDER WILDER, JAMES NORVELL and LOUIS NAUMANN were nominated.

The Convention then adjourned.

Twenty-second Ward Republican Meeting.

Council No. 1 of the Union League of America held a public meeting last evening at the hall corner of Forty-sixth-street and Eighth-avenue. Mr. D. B. MELLISH, President of the Council, occupied the chair. Major DOUGLAS CAMPBELL was the first speaker. He argued that Congress is only doing now what the sovereign people commanded in 1866. The results of changing one policy and rebuking Congress are shown in the history of the country after the election of 1862, and in 1865 and 1866, after JOHNSON's change of base. Reviewing the history of the Democratic Party and its various platforms and leaders, he said that a new fable might be written about the chameleon party; showing repudiation to Western farmers, national faith to Eastern bondholders; preaching generosity to the South, denouncing the Freedmen's Bureau for feeding our conquered enemies; denouncing corruption and supporting the "ring;" calling the soldiers patriots at home but miscreants and hirelings in the field; preaching universal suffrage for ignorant Democratic voters but educational tests for Republicans. It a fossil, AGASSIZ would classify it by its teeth, "the great bread and butter party of would-be office-holders."

WM. WILCOX, Esq., and NATHAN APPLETON, Esq., also addressed the meeting, which was a very enthusiastic one.

The German Republicans.

The German Republican Central Committee which, as already reported, appointed a committee a few days since to call upon the candidates of the Syracuse Convention to define their position in reference to the Excise and Sunday Laws, held a special meeting at their headquarters in Third-avenue last night. Dr. MUHR presided. It was reported on behalf of the Committee by Dr. GERKE that the candidates had been called upon by letter to declare whether they considered themselves bound by the Syracuse resolution referred to, and whether they would favor and aid the introduction and passage of an enactment amending the present Excise Law. No answer having been received from any of the candidates, a resolution was introduced, which, after a long discussion, was passed, declaring that the German Republican organizations, of which the Central Committee is the representative, will engage in no campaign in favor of any of the candidates of the Republican State ticket, and that no votes shall be cast by them in favor of such candidates.

The German lager-beer brewers held a special meeting at KUNTZE's, in Essex-street, yesterday afternoon, to make arrangements for a convention of the Brewers' Association and others interested in the trade, for the purpose of taking measures to insure united action during the election. Mr. HENRY CLAUSSEN, Jr., occupied the chair, and it was decided that the Convention shall meet within a week. It will be composed of delegations of the various German Liquor Dealers' Associations of the State.

Republican Assembly Conventions.

The Radical Republican Assembly Conventions were held last night. The following are the results:

First District—No nomination. Adjourned to Tuesday.

Second, Third, Fourth and Fifth Districts—No meeting.

Sixth District—Joseph O. Ellery nominated.

Seventh District—Wm. P. Richardson nominated.

Eighth District—No meeting.

Ninth District—No nomination. Adjourned to next Wednesday night at eight o'clock.

Tenth District—Herman F. Bower nominated.

Eleventh District—Adjourned without making a nomination.

Twelfth District—No meeting.

Thirteenth District—James G. Armstrong nominated.

Fourteenth District—Adjourned to Wednesday next.

Fifteenth District—Adjourned to Thursday next.

Sixteenth District—Henry Rowley.

Seventeenth District—No nomination. Adjourned to next Tuesday.

Eighteenth District—The Convention nominated Samuel E. Urmey.

Nineteenth District—Adjourned to Monday.

Twentieth District—Adjourned to Monday.

Twenty-First District—There is a split in this District. The Convention held at Third-avenue and One Hundred and Third-street is said to be "regular" at headquarters. This Convention nominated Robert Brown.

The other Convention, held corner of Third-avenue and One Hundred and Nineteenth-street, nominated Horatio P. Allen.

Constitutional Union County Convention.

This Convention met at Masonic Hall last evening and made the following nominations: County Clerk, W. C. CONNER; District-Attorney, A. OAKEY HALL; Sheriff, J. O'BRIEN; Judge of Supreme Court, A. CORDOZO; Judges of Superior Court, C. L. MONELL, J. M. BARBOUR; Judge of Common Pleas, J. R. BRADY; to fill vacancy, G. C. BARRETT; Judge of Marine Court, G. M. CURTIS; Coroners, J. E. HIJTON, A. B. ROLLINS, J. N. LAMB; Supervisor, SMITH ELY, Jr.; for short term, WM. JOYCE.

Tammany County Convention.

The following nominations have been made by the Tammany Hall County Convention:

Sheriff—James O'Brien.

County Clerk—Charles E. Loew.

Supervisor—John Brice.

Coroners—Thomas Connor, P. Keanon, Mr. Flinn.

Supreme Court—Albert Cardozo.

Superior Court—Claudius M. Monell, James M. Barbour.

Common Pleas—J. H. Brady.

Marine Court—George M. Curtis.

District-Attorney—A. Oakey Hall.

First Senatorial District Democratic Nomination.

The Democrats of the First Senatorial District, comprising Richmond, Suffolk and Queens Counties, assembled in Convention at Jamaica yesterday, and, after a protracted session, nominated LEWIS J. EDWARDS, of Suffolk. The Convention passed resolutions indorsing the State ticket and platform. A resolution condemnatory of the Excise Law was also passed. The Republican Convention for this District will meet on Wednesday next at Jamaica.

Sixth Senatorial District Mozart Convention.

The Mozart Senatorial Convention of the Sixth District met last evening, but made no nomination. A Committee of Five was appointed to confer with other Democratic Conventions with a view to uniting on one candidate. The result will be made known at an adjourned meeting to be held on Tuesday evening next.

Mozart Nominations for Supervisors and Coroners.

Last evening the County Convention of the Mozart Democracy assembled at Mozart Hall, No. 814 Broadway, and concluded its work with the following nominations:

For Supervisors—Long term, SMITH ELY, Jr.; short term, ISAAC ROSENBURG.

For Coroners—JOHN WILDEY, OWEN KEENAN and MICHAEL SMITH.

After making these nominations unanimous the Convention adjourned sine die.

Fourth Senatorial District—Democratic Convention.

The Democratic Union Delegates of the Fourth Senatorial District met at the Fifth Ward Hotel last evening. The meeting was a large and excited one. The nominees were Messrs. GIBBONS, MORGAN JONES, MONTGOMERY and GROVER. Ninety-six votes were cast, in all; of these Mr. GIBBONS received 50, MORGAN JONES 40, MONTGOMERY 5, and GROVER 1. This being the nearest approach to a two-third vote the Convention adjourned until Tuesday evening next.

Mozart Assembly Nominations.

Mozart Assembly Conventions were held in three districts last night. The Fourth District Convention adjourned to next Monday, without making a nomination. The Eleventh District Convention adjourned to Monday at 8 P. M. The Eighteenth District Convention nominated PATRICK H. MCDONOUGH.

Miscellaneous Meetings.

The Eleventh Democratic Union Assembly District Convention met at the corner of Twenty-sixth-street and Seventh-avenue last evening but adjourned until Tuesday, making no nomination.

The Constitutional Unionists of the Twenty-first District, comprising the Twelfth and part of the Nineteenth Ward, have nominated W. T. JENNINGS for the Assembly.

Mr. F. O'BYRNE was nominated by the McKeon Democrats last evening, at a meeting held at the Fifth Ward Hotel, as the candidate for Assemblyman for the First District.

The Fourth Assembly District McKeon Convention met last evening at Myers', No. 60 Henry-street, and nominated Mr. JOHN GLASS.

Kings County Democratic General Committee.

The Democratic General Committee, of Kings County, met last evening, for the purpose of receiving the credentials from the delegations elected to the various nominating conventions. In the absence of the Chairman Alderman BERGEN presided. On reaching the list of credentials it was found that there were protests from the Seventh, Fifteenth, Nineteenth and Twentieth Wards, and the town of New-Lots. All the other credentials were confirmed, and the contested ones were then taken up, when those which were signed by the regular inspectors were confirmed. The Chairman then appointed the following persons to organize the various nominating conventions, after which the meeting adjourned:

County Convention, James R. Craig; City Convention, James McCauley. Second Senatorial Convention, Robert Furey; Third, F. W. Kalbfleisch. First Assembly Convention, Thomas Ennis; Second, Henry Powell; Third, Thomas Foran; Fourth, Jacob J. Bergen; Fifth, Wm. Murray; Sixth, Z. Voorhees; Seventh, G. Fox; Eighth, Charles B. Elliott; Ninth, F. B. Kump.

Kings County Republican Primaries.

The result of the Republican primaries in Kings County indicates the defeat of Senator PIERSON, and the nomination of Mr. GOODRICH, formerly member of Assembly. A caucus of prominent Republicans was held yesterday afternoon, at which it was proposed to attempt to harmonize the interests of the conflicting parties, and the following ticket was suggested as strong and acceptable: For Mayor, A. M. Bliss; Senator, H. R. Pierson; Register, Sam'l Booth; County Clerk, Charles Schurig.

It is more than possible that the Kinsella Democrats will upset the "Ring" nominations and unite with the Conservative Republicans on a strong ticket composed of good men from both parties. The "Ring," or controlling power of the Democracy, is popularly supposed to be composed of Senator MURPHY, Register MC. LAUGHLIN, Water Commissioner FOWLER and Street Commissioner FUREY. These gentlemen have established a little Democratic aristocracy in the county, and the rank and file are disposed to follow the lead of any set that can compete with them. The probabilities are that the "Ring" will nominate for Mayor, MARTIN KALBFLEISCH; for Senator, HENRY C. MURPHY; for Register, HUGH MCLAUGHLIN; for County Clerk, JOHN J. WHITE. The Kinsella Democracy would not object to KALBFLEISCH, but they want GIDDINGS for Register and DE WITT for County Judge. It is a very pretty fight as it stands, and if the Republicans make a good ticket the chances are favorable for a Republican victory on the day of election.

Brooklyn Republican City Convention.

The delegates to the Kings County Republican City Convention met last evening at No. 9 Court-street, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Mayor and also candidates for Justice in the First, Third, Fourth and Fifth Districts. DANIEL L. NORTHRUP presided, and after the calling of the roll and the reception of the credentials of the delegates, the Convention proceeded to nominate a Mayor.

The name of Hon. SAMUEL BOOTH, the present incumbent, was proposed, when Judge REYNOLDS, on his behalf, declined the nomination, and offered a resolution indorsing the course of Mayor BOOTH during his term of office.

The resolution was adopted, after which Mr. ARCHIBALD BLISS was nominated by acclamation for Mayor.

The following parties were then nominated for Justices of the Peace:

First District—John Quincey Adams.

Third District—Benj. S. Morehouse.

Fifth District—Anthony Walter.

The nomination for the Fourth District was referred to a Committee; after which the Committee adjourned subject to the call of the Chair.

Kings County Conventions To-Day.

The Republican County Convention meets at 3 o'clock P. M., at No. 9 Court-street; the Democratic County Convention at 10 A. M., the City Convention at 1 P. M., the Third Senatorial at 4 P. M. and the Second Senatorial at 7 P. M.

Mariners' Guide and Wanderers' Aid Society.

The first annual meeting of this Society was held on Wednesday afternoon in the Mariners' Temple, corner of Oliver and Henry streets. The President, WALLACE P. GROOM, was in the chair. Rev. JAMES S. LADD, the Corresponding Secretary, presented the annual report of the Board of Directors, of which the following are extracts:

"More than 11,000 persons have heard of Christ by the wayside, through the labors of the colporteurs; 7,466 visits have been made to the sailors' boarding-houses for the purpose of religious conversation; 4,584 visits to vessels have been made for the same purpose; 7,233 seamen have been induced to attend worship at the Mariners' Temple;" 2,570 copies of Bibles and Testaments, in ten different languages, have been judiciously distributed among seamen destitute of the Scriptures. Nearly all of these have been furnished gratuitously by the Metropolitan Bible Union, and American and Foreign Bible Society. There have also been distributed 147,891 pages of tracts and 156,298 pages of other religious reading matter.

The Mission Room corner of Oliver and Henry streets has been kept open every day from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M., and has been visited by more than 5,000 seamen who have been welcomed by the missionary in charge, Rev. BENJAMIN WHEELER.

The pledge of temperance has been taken by 575 persons.

The Treasurer's report was read, showing that $2,715 81 had been expended in carrying on the work of evangelization of the seamen visiting this port.

An election was then held for a Board of Directors for the ensuing year, and the following gentlemen were unanimously elected: Rev. Ira R. Steward, Rev. Orrin Dodge, Peter Balen, Wm. Phelps, W. D. Mangam, George Hallet, G. R. Latham, H. G. Leask, E. G. Blackford, Ira Starr, W. P. Groom, W. J. Todd and W. S. Wilder.

This Society is now sustaining four missionaries who devote their whole time to the work of promoting the spiritual welfare of the seamen tarrying in this port.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

Hale, of Elizabethtown; Judge Masters, of Albany, and Gen. Birge, of Connecticut, are at the Hoffman House. Capt. G. S. Finch, of the Sixty-sixth Rifles, British Army, and Hon. M. McMichael, of Philadelphia, are at the Everett House. Hon. G. A. Grow, of Pennsylvania, and Hon. T. C. Hall, of Buffalo, are at the Metropolitan Hotel. Lieut. Mullerts, of the Danish Navy; Hon. Amos Kendall, of Washington; J. Redpath, of the Boston Advertiser; Hon. W. S. Stickney, of Washington, and Hon. P. C. Huntington, of Chicago, are at the Astor House.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon PATRICK CRONIN, a laborer, residing at No. 142 Cherry-street, was at work in the hold of the ship M. R. Ludwig, lying at Pier No. 36 East River, when a bag of oil cake, which was being lowered, broke from its fastenings, and, falling upon him, killed him instantly. The Coroner was notified, and an inquest will be held to-day.

ACCIDENT FROM A BLAST.—JAMES DONNELLY, while standing in front of his house, in Fifty-seventh-street, near Ninth-avenue, yesterday, was dangerously injured by being struck on the leg by a stone thrown from a blast in Fifty-sixth-street. The man who fired the blast was arrested by Officer MAHER, of the Twenty-second Precinct.

ACCIDENT AT A FERRY.—At 10 o'clock last evening an unknown man, about 25 years of age, had his leg cut off at South Ferry by having it caught between the boat and the bridge. The wounded man was taken to the City Hospital by Officer O'BRIEN, of the First Precinct.

PREMATURE CONSUMPTION.—Some blacksmith's coal, belonging to VAN TILE & Co., No. 273 Cherry-street, and lying in the yard of JOHN C. WEBB, No. 471 Cherry-street, took fire at 5 o'clock this morning, and was much damaged.

CONSCIENTIOUS.—A taxpayer yesterday sent $100 to Comptroller CONNOLLY, to make up the amount for which he should have been taxed. The money was paid over to the City Chamberlain.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

FELONIOUS ASSAULT.—ANTHONY GOLBERT, an Italian peddler, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Sergt. MADDOX, of the Forty-fifth Precinct, charged with assaulting with a knife FRANK BOYD, a boy of fourteen. It seems that the boy was annoying the peddler while he was pursuing his calling at the intersection of Grand and Fourth streets, E. D., when the latter became aggravated and threw an open jack-knife at him, the blade of which lodged in his neck, and inflicted a deep wound. The accused was locked up.

WHISKY SEIZURE.—Fifty barrels of whisky were seized yesterday morning by Inspector MCHENRY at the foot of Grand-street, for alleged violation of the Revenue Law.

NOMINATION.—Mr. T. J. ROBERTS has received the Democratic nomination of taxpayers and others for Supervisor of the Second Ward.

CENTRAL TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION.—The first anniversary of the Kings County Temperance Association will be held this evening at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, commencing at 8 o'clock. The annual report will be presented, and addresses will be delivered by Rev. H. W. BEECHER, Rev. T. L. CUYLER, Rev. H. M. GALLAHER, Rev. MASON GALLAHER and others.

ARREST FOR PERJURY.—JOHN A. FRITH was arrested yesterday on a charge of perjury. The complaint is made by ORLANDO and SILAS HUBERT, and FRITH will be examined by Justice DUNN.

BURGLARY AT GREENPOINT.—The shoe-store of PHILIP HALPER, situated in Kent-street, Greenpoint, was entered by burglars on Thursday night and robbed of clothing, shoes and money to the amount of $200.

Are the Five-Twenties Payable in Gold?—Correspondence with the Secretary.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In reference to the question whether the Five-Twenty bonds are payable in gold or in currency, the representations of the Secretary of the Treasury on this point have been referred to by Gen. BUTLER and by others of the disputants. I have on this subject an important piece of testimony, which has not hitherto been published, but which I am permitted to make public. I was in Europe in the Summer and Autumn of 1865, as an agent of the Treasury Department. On the 22d of August I addressed the following letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, from Frankfort:

DEAR SIR: I arrived here on the 20th from London, by way of Brussels. While in London, I was told that a good deal of distrust is felt in that market lest the Five-Twenty bonds will not be paid in gold; and one of the largest American bankers desired me to call your attention to the fact, and to ask if you cannot, with propriety, make some statement of the Government's purpose to pay in gold, which shall reassure the public. He mentioned to me the name of a very leading English banker, with whom he had just had an interview, who said he would gladly invest in American securities if he could assure his customers confidently on that point. I told him I had always understood from Mr. CHASE that only the Treasury notes are payable in currency; while all bonds, even though not so expressed in the statutes authorizing their issue, were regarded as obligations payable in coin. He replied that such a statement from you would be all that is needed to quiet apprehension. I quite understand that you cannot control or answer for the future action of the Government; but as the present head of the Treasury, it seems to me that you are the proper exponent of its views and purposes in all that relates to the finances, and that you might, in answer to a proper inquiry, give such assurances as would quiet this distrust. Of course, any well-grounded fear on this point would be fatal to our credit in Europe. I find the estimates of the amount of our bonds held in Europe to be lower than those given me in June, and then communicated to you. Instead of 300 or 400 millions then spoken of, I think estimates would now range from 150 to 300 millions. I however hear the opinion freely expressed, both by London and Frankfort bankers, that Europe will continue to absorb our bonds till the whole of the original 5-20 loan is on this side.

I have the honor to be very respectfully and truly yours,

GEORGE WALKER,
Agent Treasury Department U. S.

To this letter I received, while in Paris, toward the end of September, the following reply, a copy of which I sent immediately to London, where it was privately circulated among bankers, and I have no doubt set at rest the anxiety which had previously existed; at all events, I found the subject no longer discussed when I went to London a few weeks afterward.

SECRETARY M'CULLOCH'S REPLY.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Sept. 8, 1865.

MY DEAR SIR: Your favor of the 22d ultimo is at hand.

The debt of the United States is made up of bonds, interest-bearing notes of different descriptions, and circulating notes.

The bonds are the funded debt, principal and interest being payable in coin. The interest-bearing notes are on short time, and are payable in lawful money; the larger portion being also convertible at maturity, at the will of the holder, into 5-20 bonds.

There was no expressed pledge on the part of the Government that the 5-20 bonds should be paid in coin, because no such pledge was needed; all bonds issued by the Government are considered to be payable in coin; all that have matured have been so paid. The bonds that fell due the 1st of January, 1863, were paid in coin, and the Texas Indemnity Bonds have been, and are now being, paid in the same currency, when presented by loyal men who received them through loyal channels. The action of the Government in the past and at the present time is a sufficient guarantee of what it will do in the future. There is no cause for anxiety on this point. The Government will keep faith with its creditors.

There is little doubt that before the first issue of the 5-20 bonds falls due in 1867, specie payments will have been resumed; but if this should not be the case, there is nothing in the past history of the Government to justify the apprehension that a depreciated currency will be offered to the holders in payment thereof. I am, very truly yours,

H. McCULLOCH, Secretary.

Hon. GEORGE WALKER, &c., &c., London.

I have never entertained a doubt that the obligation of the Government to pay the principal of all its bonds in coin is manifest on a fair construction of the statutes authorizing the loan—applying to these statutes, those principles of interpretation which are applicable to all statute law. But beyond the statutes there are the contemporary declarations of the Government, upon which the contract with the takers of the bonds was based. If there was an ambiguity in the bond itself, it is a principle of law that the contemporary representations of the party making it may be admitted in evidence to explain that ambiguity in any manner not inconsistent with its language. The bond itself being silent as to the currency in which it was to be paid, the Government officers or agents negotiating its sale had a right to say that it was payable in gold, and the people of the United States are bound by that declaration as much as by any other part of the contract.

Such letters as the foregoing letter of Mr. McCULLOCH are important therefore, as showing what the contract was which was entered into with the Government creditors. They do not enlarge, but fix the statute obligation, and it is an obligation which an honest people will be slow to repudiate. Congress might—ought to set this question at rest by adopting a joint resolution, declaring that all the bonds of the United States are obligations of which both principal and interest are payable in coin. We should then see whether any party is bold enough to make repudiation an issue before the country.

I am, your obedient servant,

GEORGE WALKER.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 17, 1867.

Hon. D. A. Wells on Our Revenue Laws.

At a recent meeting of the Toledo Board of Trade, Hon. D. A. WELLS, Special Commissioner of Internal Revenue, happening to be present, made some interesting remarks upon what he has seen of the collection of revenue in Europe. He thinks that in this country, although the revenue returns have been such as to justify a feeling of encouragement, a reform is necessary in the manner of appointing revenue officers. Under the European systems he states that almost nothing is lost through the incapacity or dishonesty of officials. He considers this attributable to the manner of their appointment. After a careful examination they receive their appointment for life, or during good behavior. They are promoted by a system of seniority resembling that practiced in military and naval affairs. Mr. WELLS considers that a system resembling these should be adopted here, and thinks that by this means such a class of officials could be secured as to save the immense sums out of which the Government is annually swindled.

Upon the question of the debt, Mr. WELLS stated that he considered the condition of the public debt to be very hopeful. The expenses of the Government have been very large during the past year—considerably in excess of the estimates. But, notwithstanding this drawback, in addition to funding a great amount of the short paper, the Treasury had a considerable surplus to devote to the reduction of the debt. At this time nearly all of the short paper is funded, except the last issue of Seven-thirties. When this sum is funded, and the revenue system reformed, the taxes can be materially decreased, and a larger surplus will be obtained. This surplus can be taken into the market and used for the purchase of Five-twenties at the market rates. When it is generally known that this course is being pursued, Mr. WELLS considers it certain both that the bonds will rise in value, and that the greenbacks also will rise. He thinks it probable that in this way a speedy return to a specie basis will be reached. This having taken place, it will be no difficult to substitute for the Six Per Cent. Bonds a foreign loan, at a much reduced rate of interest. Money is quite plenty in Europe at present, and it is only necessary, by increasing confidence in this way, to create a great demand for United States bonds abroad.

GRAND AWARD OF PREMIUMS.

The Ladies' Society
IN AID OF THE
SUFFERING AND DESTITUTE OF THE SOUTH.

MRS. HARLOW MATHER, Secretary.
HENRY HARTMAN, Treasurer.
FRANK H. NORTON, Actuary.

The Executive Committee of the Ladies' Society in Aid of the Suffering and Destitute of the South have been compelled to redouble their exertions for the termination of the work inaugurated by them with the view of extending valuable and immediate assistance to their suffering brethren.

In accordance, therefore, with this purpose they have determined upon offering a

SPLENDID SERIES OF AWARDS to their subscribers.

FIRST GRAND PREMIUM:
A MANSION ON 5TH-AV.
VALUE $80,000!!

SECOND GRAND PREMIUM:
GREENBACKS TO THE AMOUNT OF $20,000!!

VALUABLE JEWELRY.
COSTLY CLOCKS.

Leutze's celebrated Painting of the LADY GODIVA.

Titian's admirable
"ENTOMBMENT,"
(one of the finest copies ever made,) by
E. H. MAY,
with a splendid series of artistic works from the well-known pencils of KENSETT,
ELLIOTT,
ETTY,
THE TWO HARTS,
CHURCH,
VERBOECKHOVEN,
INNESS,
DIAZ,
NOBLE,
and many of the prominent and celebrated painters residing upon either side of the Atlantic, with OTHER VALUABLE PREMIUMS, amounting in value, at least, to $300,000.

The actual urgency of that need for which the Society make this appeal, and the present necessity which exists for procuring additional funds to those which have already been forwarded by them to their impoverished and plague-stricken brethren, have induced the Lady Managers, after mature deliberation, to adopt the plan of a distribution of valuable premiums at the Grand National Entertainment, as one affording the

MOST FEASIBLE AND SPEEDY MEANS of carrying out their purpose.

The plan which they have decided upon adopting will, while realizing a

MAGNIFICENT SUM for the relief of the SUFFERERS IN THE SOUTH, yield to the subscribers for this beneficent purpose premiums amounting in value to

THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

They have therefore secured the Galleries located at
NO. 845 BROADWAY,
for the exhibition of their SPLENDID COLLECTION OF PAINTINGS, and a portion of the MAGNIFICENT PREMIUMS
which will be awarded to the subscribers on SATURDAY, NOV. 30, 1867, at the close of the sale of shares, when
THEIR GRAND NATIONAL ENTERTAINMENT will take place in Washington, D. C., and the DISTRIBUTION OF AWARDS will be made in such manner as an Associate Committee selected by the subscribers may think fit, considering it best adapted to promote their wishes, and to secure their interests.

GENERAL PLAN.

It is proposed by the Ladies' Society in Aid of the Suffering and Destitute in the South, to issue
THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND TICKETS AT TWO DOLLARS EACH,
the management guaranteeing that at the least premiums to the amount of
THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS
shall be distributed among the subscribers, leaving the Executive Committee of the Society a large amount to be devoted to the
